Quiet, Heartwarming Reception for Pair

WASHINGTON (AP)—The two freed RB-47 fliers today returned to America and a quiet but heart-warming reception from President Kennedy and their families. Capt. John R. McKone, 28, and Freeman B. Olmstead, 25, landed at 11:58 a.m. EST at Andrews Air Force Base, Md., after a seven month ordeal of imprisonment by the Soviets.

Appeal For 588 On Ship

Navy Offers To Remove Them at Sea

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—The U.S. Navy appealed again Thursday night to the rebel commander of the Santa Maria to free the captive liner's 588 passengers on this side of the Atlantic and offered to remove them at sea off the Brazilian port of Belem.

Adm. Robert L. Dennison, commander of the U.S. Atlantic Fleet, broadcast his appeal as the cruise ship commandeered by enemies of Portugal's dictator, Antonio de Oliveira Salazar still sped toward West Africa but along a southeasterly course paralleling the northeast coast of Brazil. The Santa Maria Thursday night was 750 miles northeast of Belem.

Dennison called on the rebel leader, Henrique M. Galvao, to change his course and proceed toward Belem, at the mouth of the Amazon River, to discharge the liner's passengers. Among them are 42 Americans.

"Am sure you agree it best (to) accomplish transfer (of passengers) as soon as possible on this side of Atlantic," Dennison said. "If this agreeable to you will have U.S. Navy ship meet you off port to assist in transfer of passengers if necessary."

The U. S. task force of four destroyers and 18 planes chasing the runaway cruise ship are under direct orders from President Kennedy not to force a boarding of the 20,906-ton liner even though Salazar has denounced Galvao and his men as pirates.

Resume Hunt For Missing Service Plane

ARGENTIA, Nfld. (AP)—Six planes flew into wind and snow over the Atlantic today in resumed search for a U.S. Military Air Transport Service plane that disappeared Thursday with 23 persons aboard.

Search planes had covered 300 square miles off the southeast Newfoundland coast but found no trace of the four-engine C118, which had been scheduled to refuel at Argentinia on a flight from Morocco to Norfolk, Va.

Search and rescue headquarters in Halifax said temperatures in the search area were moderating and the ceiling was about 1,300 feet but visibility occasionally was cut by snow flurries.

Five planes were standing by at Newfoundland bases to continue searching after the six now over the water return.

A crewman on a Royal Canadian Air Force plane was injured when the aircraft was battered by winds while searching for the American plane.

The plane's last contact was with a U.S. Navy patrol plane that sighted the C118 on its radar and talked with the crew. The Navy plane said that 35 minutes later it saw an explosion in the air about 27 miles northeast of Argentinia, apparently above Newfoundland's Avalon Peninsula and near the city of St. John's, across the peninsula from Argentinia. But search officials said the Navy pilot could have seen a flare.

The plane was carrying 13 passengers and 10 Navy crewmen from Morocco to Norfolk, Va., its home base. The transport had only enough fuel to stay in the air until midmorning Thursday.

An icy wind blew sharp gusts and the thermometer hovered at 20 degrees as the fliers stepped into the arms of their loved ones.

Their wives had been waiting her since yesterday to meet them. Also here were Olmstead's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Blaine Olmstead of Elmira, N.Y., and the flier's brother and sister-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. C. Brent Olmstead.

Other welcome included Secretary of the Air Force Eugene Zuckert, Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Thomas D. White, and Richard H. Davis, deputy assistant secretary of state for European affairs.

President Kennedy, who announced the fliers' release dramatically two days ago, flew out the 15 miles from the White House to Andrews Air Force Base to greet the homecomers. He went by helicopter. And, as usual he wore no hat on the field despite the chill.

McKone was the first down the ramp of the Constellation plane which carried the fliers on the last leg of their trip, from Goose Bay, Labrador, to Andrews Field.

McKone saluted, then shook Kennedy's hand.

Olmstead followed right behind McKone. He did not salute, but grasped the President's hand, too.

Then the fliers immediately turned to their waiting wives and embraced them long and lovingly.

Both women were wearing bright red coats and bright corsets.

Although there had been elaborate TV and press preparations in the belief Kennedy might make a public address of welcome at the field, he did not do so.

After greeting the fliers and their families, he returned to the White House in his helicopter. There were no interviews with the fliers, in line with a White House policy that talk at this point might not be in the national interest.

To further emphasize the nation's interest in their return, the President invited the two captains and their wives to the White House later in the day for coffee.

The wives were flown here Thursday from Topeka, Kan., in an Air Force plane, in the expectation that the men would be here then.

The fliers' trip from Goose Bay was postponed, however, because of the heavy snowstorm that enveloped Washington and made flying in this area hazardous. The two airmen stayed in Goose Bay overnight and resumed their journey at 5 a.m. today.

The men are the sole known survivors of the American plane, whose destruction has been the nub of a dispute between Washington and Moscow. The Russians contended it was over their territory on a spy mission followup to the U2 incident. This country took the stand it was shot down over international waters while on an innocent magnetic mapping operation.

Knipp Brothers Win Award For Weed Control

The Knipp Brothers — Wilbur, Ernest, and Albert, Jr. — of Tipton, were named today to receive the C. A. Helm Memorial Award for weed control.

The award was presented at the annual meeting of the Missouri Seed Improvement Association on the University of Missouri campus. Consisting of a plaque and $100, the award honors the late Professor C. A. Helm, long time staff member of the University's field crops department and secretary of the Missouri Seed Improvement Association.

The Knipp have sprayed all row crops for weed control for the last three years. All fence rows are sprayed each season and pastures are mowed twice a year. A judging committee composed of University field crops specialists selected the winner of the Helm Award.

In other presentations, the Association awarded pins to the following: ten-year pins, James Elliott, Versailles; and William Stuenkel, Concordia.

Entire Business Block Threatened

Two Buildings Destroyed By Fire In Pilot Grove

Pilot Grove suffered one of its most threatening fires early Friday morning, when a blaze of an undetermined origin destroyed two two-story business buildings in the business section of the town. The fire was discovered shortly after 1 a.m. and by the time the volunteer fire department had been aroused, flames had spread quickly through both buildings.

The buildings are located on Main street, a street which parallels the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad tracks. The buildings were also located in the middle of the business block and for a time threatened the entire area, when fire broke through the roof and wind started spreading burning embers in the area.

Jack Gerling, who resides near Pilot Grove, discovered the fire. Gerling was taking a lady friend home and noticed the smell of smoke. He went to the home of Fire Chief B. J. Wessing and reported the fire. Investigating, the pair discovered the fire and turned in the alarm for the volunteers.

Mayor Martin Wesselman and Chief Wessing, the latter whose garage is located just southwest of one of the buildings, conferred about the fire spreading through the entire block. Mayor Wesselman called the Booneville Fire Department and when they stated the department could not make the run, calls were made to the Pettis County Fire Department and the Tipton Fire Department.

Good Idea

The temperature hit a new low for the season last night. Now, let's all cheer for a new high from the weatherman.

Increasing cloudiness tonight; cloudy Saturday with snow beginning Saturday afternoon or evening; a little warmer tonight and Saturday. Low tonight 6-12; high Saturday in 20s.

The temperature Friday was -3 at 7 a.m. and 9 at 1 p.m. Low Thursday night was 5.

The temperature one year ago today was, high 51; low 32; two years ago, high 34; low 12; three years ago, high 33; low 27.

Lake of Ozarks stage: 54.2 feet; 5.8 below full reservoir; no change.

Assistant Fire Chief Ernest Carver called members of the court for permission to give aid to Pilot Grove. When it was granted Carver answered the call. The Tipton Department arrived on the scene about the same time the Pettis County Department arrived.

In the meantime the Pilot Grove volunteers, who were helped by various citizens of the town and some country residents of the area, had two lines of hose pouring water on the flames. The

Hogan Heads Testing Drive In the County

Maurice Hogan, Sedalia postmaster, has accepted chairmanship of the tuberculosis testing project for all school children and school employees in Pettis County.

Mr. Hogan's acceptance was announced at the meeting of Pettis County Tuberculosis Association Wednesday. The project is being sponsored by Bothwell Hospital medical staff and the County TB Association. It is financed by the proceeds from Christmas Seal sales.

The group voted to base the project on the school certification plan. All school boards and administrators are invited to participate by approving the testing service for their school.

Under the school certification plan, schools may qualify for an "A" certificate by having 95 to 100 per cent of students, kindergarten through high school, and all employed personnel tested. This includes teachers, cooks, bus drivers, and custodians.

A "B" certificate will be awarded those schools with only 80 to 95 per cent of children and all employed personnel being tuberculin tested.

C. F. Scotten, vice-president of the association, conducted the meeting. Herbert Seifert, president, is vacationing in Florida. Hogan stated committee chairmen and members will be announced soon. He introduced Dr. C. W. Meinershagen, director of tuberculosis control, Division of Health; Virgil Caldwell, field representative, Missouri Tuberculosis Association; and Mrs. Eva Moen, public health educator for Pettis County.

As Pettis County does not have a county nursing service, the association will be providing the service.

82 Persons Attend

11 Counties Meet Here On Welfare

"What Makes a Healthy Community?" was the subject discussed Thursday night at the meeting of the West Central Division of the Missouri Association for Social Welfare held at the First First Methodist Church. The meeting was attended by 82 persons from Bates, Cass, Cole, Lafayette, Cooper, Henry, Johnson, Moniteau, Saline, Morgan and Pettis Counties, and it was necessary to turn down reservations due to the lack of available facilities.

The meeting was opened by the Rev. Clinton B. Galatas of Marshall, general chairman of the West Central Division, and invocation was given by the Rev. Roy Strubling, pastor of the First Methodist Church.

The program was in the form of a panel discussion with Harry Dowdy, Jefferson City, executive director of the Missouri Cancer Society of the National Society for Prevention of Cancer, and president of the Missouri Public Health Association, was the moderator.

William Allen, M. D., consultant on chronic disease control, State Division of Health, Jefferson City, was the first speaker on the program on "The Role of Public Health."

Public health, he said, is the protection of the community health through preventive measures. Too often, he pointed out,

Next Capsule By Reds May Carry 2 Men

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviet Union's next space spectacular could be to put two men into orbit, both in the same big capsule.

She would not only seize the prize of being first in human space flight — two men would trump even more the U.S. program to put one astronaut into orbit.

Four Soviet range ships patrolling the Pacific ocean for the last week in the target area used for some of the Soviet missile firings indicate Moscow is on the verge of trying another space shot.

There is much speculation this might be a spacecraft carrying a man, rather than a collection of animals.

The possibility the Soviets might send up two men at once is reasonable speculation, a U.S. space official said informally.

The Soviets have the capability of a big booster rocket and large capsule, he said. And "solving the problems of re-entry and life support is no harder for two men than for one."

Many space and rocket experts think the race to put a man in space is almost sure to go to the Soviets. The Soviets long have had much more powerful booster rockets.

Sputnik II—launched back in November, 1957, and carrying the dog Laika—is interpreted as a clear signal the Soviets had already begun then to prepare for putting man into space, months before the United States had even launched her first small satellite.

people are unaware of health until illness strikes. Today, there are preventative medicines.

Going back 2000 B.C., he said, they had learned about water, not only had bath facilities but flush toilets, but the cleanliness was not because of sanitation but religion, cleanliness in the eyes of God. Leprosy created fear, he said, and there was a need to control it, so isolation seemed to be the answer. Then came isolation of other contagious diseases. At the present time hospitals are provided for TB patients for that reason.

Wheeler Farm Home Burns Near LaMonte

Family of 6 Loses Everything in Home Except Deep Freeze

The two-story, nine-room frame farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Wheeler, six miles northwest of LaMonte, was destroyed by fire Thursday while the family was away. Only a deep freeze filled with meat was saved.

Mr. Wheeler was at a sale at Pilot Grove and Mrs. Wheeler was at her sister-in-law's home in LaMonte when the fire occurred. The Wheelers have four children, Bobby, 13, twins Susan and Steven, 10, and Julie, 2. All of their clothes were lost in the fire.

The blaze was discovered about noon by a neighbor, Dave Patrick, who notified the LaMonte volunteer fire department. Patrick attempted to enter the house before the firemen arrived, but smoke and flames drove him back. By the time firemen arrived, all the inside, the roof, and the entire east side were ablaze. About 15 neighbors converged on the scene to offer help in fighting the fire.

The only item saved was the deep freeze, and Wheeler said last night some of the meat may have been ruined. The meat was taken to the homes of several neighbors, who canned it in an attempt to save it.

The Wheelers moved in last night with Mr. Wheeler's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Wheeler, south of LaMonte, where Mr. Wheeler said they expect to stay until they can find a different home in the community.

Wheeler said the house and furnishings were covered by insurance, and he would rebuild. There was no estimate on the amount of the loss. The cause of the fire was not known.

Teamster Boss Joins Lawyers Going Over Mail Fraud Records

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Teamsters Union President James Hoffa has joined his lawyers in going over records in the government's mail fraud case against him and two other Detroit men.

Hoffa said Thursday, "I think I know something about this case, so I thought I would sit down and take a look at the records for myself."

A lawyer predicted it will be some time after March 6 before the case can go to trial.

Beatrice Foods Buys A Distributorship

Robert Delany, Concordia, has sold the Meyer Dairy Products distributorship to Beatrice Foods Company of Sedalia, manufacturers and distributors of Meadow Gold dairy products.

Delany has been the distributor of Meyer dairy products in Concordia, Sweet Springs, Odessa, Higginsville, Waverly and Carrollton.

Beatrice Foods will serve Waverly and Carrollton from their Carrollton plant, while the other towns will be served from the Sedalia plant.

Delany, who had the contract to supply dairy products to Whitman Air Force Base, sold that contract to Tullis-Hall, Sedalia.

Food Prices, House Rent Take Big Bite

High Costs Mean Pay Raises For Some Union Men

WASHINGTON (AP)—Living costs edged to another record high in December. It was the 10th increase in 11 months.

The Labor Department reported today its consumers price index rose one-tenth of one per cent between November and December. This put the index at 127.5. The 1947-49 average level is the base of 100 used in the index.

Higher food prices and shelter costs contributed most to the increase between November and December.

The December index was 1.6 per cent above the level a year earlier.

Robert J. Myers, chief of price statistics for the Labor Department, said there is no real price stability in sight, but that the price level for January probably is little changed from December.

This latest living cost increase means a pay raise for over 150,000 workers of one or two cents an hour. They are under labor contracts calling for pay changes in relation to changes in the index.

Among workers due to get an increase are employees of the Douglas and Northrup Aircraft companies, Greyhound Bus Lines and some Western trucking companies.

Higher meat prices accounted for a major part of an advance of two-tenths of 1 per cent in cost averages for all foods. In December, food prices were at their highest for 1960, and close to the high point reached since World War II in July 1958.

Dairy products reached a new high, and costs of bread, fruits and vegetables, and medical care all showed increases.

Nearly all elements of home ownership costs increased in December. This rise was led by higher residential property taxes. Rents also edged up.

'Witnesses' Will Attend 3-Day Meet

The Watchtower Bible and Tract Society of Brooklyn, N.Y., has invited the Sedalia congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses to attend a three-day circuit assembly of the group in Fulton, Feb. 10-12. Spokesmen for the Society, which is the legal agency for Jehovah's Witnesses world-wide, said the convention will be held at the National Guard Armory in Fulton.

Svend Jensen, circuit supervisor of the group in this area, further announced the appointment of a Sedalia man to a post in convention management. He is Walter H. Meyer, Route 4, presiding minister of the local congregation.

He will head a department in assembly organization. Jensen said more than 20 departments have been organized to set up, operate and dismantle the convention. Meyer will head the auditing department.

All assembly departments, including the one directed by Meyer, will be staffed with Jehovah's Witnesses who volunteer their time and services without payment of any kind.

Assembly officials expect between 500 and 600 delegates from north-central Missouri and eastern Illinois to attend the Fulton gathering. The Watchtower Society will send a special traveling representative from New York to act as the convention's chairman and principal speaker.

Purpose of the gathering, according to spokesmen, is to down-to-earth discussions of the Bible and problems of daily living, educational programs for the ministers attending and ministerial visits to the residents of Fulton and vicinity to promote home Bible study.

As many as 30 Jehovah's Witnesses from Pettis County will attend the meeting. The local group meets weekly at Kingdom Hall.

Miss Elizabeth Sullivan Becomes Bride Of S-Sgt. John D. Hire

Mrs. John Dewey Hire

Miss Elizabeth Ann Sullivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Sullivan, 2400 Albert Lee, and S-Sgt. John Dewey Hire, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Brown, Lee's Summit, were united in marriage Saturday, Dec. 24, at the Sedalia Bible Church in Sedalia, at two o'clock in the afternoon. The Rev. Robert F. Rhodes performed the double ring ceremony.

The church altar was decorated with Christmas poinsettias and other Christmas greenery. Miss Doris Stott, Sedalia, played the traditional wedding selections on the organ and accompanied Mrs. Mary Francis Herndon, who sang "Because," "Always" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Mrs. Barbara Lawrence and Miss Loyce Curtis served as candlelighters. Each wore a Christmas red velvet sheath with Sabrina necklines and cap sleeves. They also wore wrist corsages of white fugi mums.

S-Sgt. Wesley Cordes served as best man with S-Sgt. John Puckett and S-Sgt. James Wade as groomsmen. Mr. Jerry Robert Morris, cousin of the bride, and Mr. James Robert Lamb, cousin of the groom, served as ushers.

Miss Susan Miller, cousin of the bride, served as flower girl, wearing a Christmas red velvet dress with inserted white lace. Master Joe Miller, cousin of the bride, served as ringbearer.

The bride's mother chose a gold brocade suit with butternut accessories. The mother of the groom wore a Christmas red knit suit with black accessories. Both wore orchid corsages with matching ribbons.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. The bride's table was covered with a white lace table cloth centered with a three tier wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom and decorated with white wedding bells and red roses. On either side of the cake was a double candelabra with white twisted candles.

Servers at the bride's table were Mrs. Nona Hickenbottom, Miss Leah Gunn and Miss Jackie Wilson, all of Sedalia.

For traveling, the bride chose a white Italian knit suit with orchid accessories and an orchid corsage. The couple left Christmas day for a short trip. They are now residing in Kansas City.

The bride is a graduate of Smith-Cotton High School with the class of 1959 and attended Central Missouri State College for one year. She is now employed at the Kansas City Missouri Credit Exchange Bureau.

The groom is a graduate of Lee's Summit High School and is now serving with the United States Air Force.

Stick to Religion

Religious Recording Firm Now a Financial Success

By CHARLES STAFFORD
Associated Press Writer

A Texas company is trying to convert the family record player into pulpit and choir loft. And it has been successful, at least financially.

While other companies record everything from jungle sounds to sick comedians, Word Records sticks to religious records. In only 10 years, it has grown from a single recording of an allegorical football game between Christianity and Evil into a $5-million a year business selling the recordings of more than 60 artists.

Jarrell F. McCracken, 32, ordained minister who heads Word Records, regards its work as a ministry combining sound and music to make its point.

"The most powerful force in the world is sound," he says. "The force of recorded sound has an awesome influence on the minds of people."

"Good religious music can influence men, women and children. And that influence can, along with other religious forces, be of inestimable value in shaping the society of the future."

Word was begun by accident while McCracken was studying for the ministry at Baylor University in Waco, the Baptist stronghold where his firm has headquarters. He worked as a sports-caster.

Invited to speak to a church group, he conceived the idea of combining religion and sports. From a backstage microphone, he broadcast an imaginary football game between Christianity and Evil—"The Game of Life." Christianity won on an 80-yard play in the final seconds by "Average Christian" after "the greatest coach of them all, Jesus Christ," sent in the "Holy Spirit" to call signals.

The audience liked it so well they asked for recordings. McCracken made the record at the radio station where he worked and within a few weeks sold 2,000 copies.

Today 900 distributors and salesmen of Word subsidiaries, the Audio Record Library Co. and Word Record Distributing Co., enter thousands of American homes to sell Word records. A ministry it might be, but it is also a commercial enterprise with a hard-driving sales program.

Word's big sales item is the Word Audio Library. This includes two volumes—each containing eight long-playing records—of Bible readings, and two volumes of "The Hymnbook"—recordings of 213 Protestant hymns. Other albums contain music and stories for children and young people.

Word also has an Album-of-the-Month Club, and sells individual albums through record shops and Bible stores.

Word's hymn records have wide scope. They range from the nostalgic "Old Rugged Cross" to the lofty "Hallelujah Chorus" from Handel's Messiah, from the evangelistic selections of the Audrey Meier Choir to the spirituals of the Fisk Jubilee Singers, from the pop treatment of Flo Price to the temple strains of the Baylor University Chapel Choir, and from trombone solo to concert orchestra.

He described the complexity of shoemaking and illustrated the stages of manufacturing as done in the Town and Country factory whose products are sold all over the world.

Don Richardson, chairman of February 4 Pancake Day ticket sales reported an advance sale of 803 to date.

President William Schien presented the club a certificate of appreciation from the Salvation Army for the part Kiwanians played in manning the army's Christmas kettles during the holiday season.

President Schien, Vice-President Dan Robinson and District Chairman of Music, Abe Rosenthal attended the district Kiwanis meeting in Springfield last Saturday and Sunday.

The Boys and Girls Committee, under the leadership of Chairman J. D. Walker, sponsored the Smith-Cotton Invitational Speech Tournament last Saturday at the High School. Young people from all over the state participated. Kiwanians served refreshments. Trophies were presented the winning contestants that evening.

Guests at Thursday's meeting were: Sheriff Emmett Fairfax with Robert Fritz; Kiwanians Byron Banta, the Rev. William Bensburg, Elmer C. Hare and Marvin Schanz, from the Marshall club; Robert Nichols and John Handley with M. G. Witzgreuter. Singing was led by William Ward with Miss Lillian Fox, accompanist. Invocation was by James Harms.

No One Way Street

No one expects the Soviet Union or any member of the Communist orbit to give up misrepresenting the United States before the world. But there is no reason why we should not be better understood and appreciated by the rest of the family of nations.

It is both tragic and wearying that in so many quarters our clear dedication to peace and to the betterment of human welfare at home and abroad should be taken at something less than face value.

To the extent that this misunderstanding is America's own fault, we must hope that efforts are made in the years just ahead to blot out any wrong impressions.

The emphasis has got to be put on the positive, peaceful side of our endeavors rather than on the negative, military side. And every American from the president on down must find the means of conveying to peoples abroad that our sympathy with their struggle for advancement is strong beyond doubt.

But understanding is always a mutual thing, and in the postwar years there has not been too much mutuality about it where the United States is concerned.

From those beyond our shores, new nations or old, freshly come to independence or still seeking it, we have a right to expect a reasonable attempt to see America in the full light of its history, its background and its problems.

Why, for example, should it be impossible for them to understand that we are caught between two fires on the issue of colonialism?

Throughout this nation's lifetime it has been thoroughly committed to support for the aspirations of those seeking self-determination. It is also a fact that our strongest allies in the defense of world freedom happen to be—or to have been—important colonial powers.

In this dilemma there is no black-and-white course for us to follow. If the struggling peoples of the earth want our sympathy, it does not seem too much to ask that they give some in return, on such delicate issues as our colonial position.

Let them ask themselves, too, why they find it so easy to view with suspicion a country like America which has an unmistakable commitment to peace and freedom and justice.

And why, in turn, are they so ready to take at face value the patent frauds of communism, whose whole history and performance speaks of aggression, injustice and oppression?

Understanding is a two-way avenue and it's time our friends abroad opened up their side of the street.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Resolutions for University of Cuba

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Congressman Dante Fascell of Miami, Fla., has introduced a resolution in the House of Representatives providing for a "free university of Cuba," using exiled professors from the University of Havana now working as waiters and bus boys in Florida.

Simultaneously, Sen. Karl Mundt of South Dakota is working on a similar resolution in the Senate. Mundt is a Republican from the northwest, Fascell a Democrat from the south. Both agree, however, that, regardless of politics or geographic location, the United States should combat Castroism, not by name-calling, but by setting an example of intellectual and scholastic freedom as does not exist in Cuba today.

They also believe that a free university of Cuba might pave the way for a subsequent "University of the Americas" for both north and South American students, North and South American professors.

Congressman Fascell's resolution states that "there has long been a bond of friendship between the people of Cuba and the people of the United States dating from the years when the American people did battle for Cuba's freedom." He points out that "these bonds of friendship between the peoples of the two countries continue despite the unsuccessful efforts of a current dictatorship to stir up suspicion and hate between them."

Congressman Fascell went on to point out that among the Cuban guests in the United States "are many whose education has been interrupted, and many professors from the once free University of Havana who have fled the tyranny and suppression which have replaced the once sovereign right of the university to teach and maintain the hard-won freedoms of the Cuban patriot, San Marti."

He proposes, therefore, that President Kennedy be authorized under the U.S. Information and Exchange Act and his contingency fund, to act immediately toward establishing a "free university of Cuba."

Rockefeller's Long Arm?

Kennedy advisers remain suspicious that the long and effective arm of the Rockefeller family reached into the Kennedy cabinet to spike any political build-up for Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., to run for governor of New York.

Here is what happened behind the scenes which leads to the suspicion:

When Kennedy asked Robert S. McNamara, president of Ford, to become secretary of defense he told him he had made no commitments for assistant secretaries of defense and other subordinates in the Defense Department.

Guest Editorial

AMERICAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION NEWS: Socialized Medicine. Walter Reuther, George Meany and other labor leaders, who have set out to saddle this country with a compulsory medical care plan tied to social security, frequently rant because the AMA refers to such schemes as socialized medicine. And in their harangues they vehemently deny that Forand-type plans are socialized medicine.

President Kennedy, also an advocate of such social security medical care plans, denied during his campaign that what he proposes is socialized medicine.

Now comes the Socialist Party with a few words on the subject. And if any group is qualified to judge whether something is socialized medicine or not, it must be the Socialists themselves.

Here's what the Socialists said in the Dec. 1, 1960 issue of their paper New America:

"Once the Forand bill is passed this nation will be provided with a mechanism for socialized medicine, capable of indefinite expansion in every direction until it includes the entire population."

The paper went on to say that labor is "the biggest and most articulate of the groups favoring socialized medicine."

A University of Michigan professor, Wilbur Cohen, who works the same side of the street as Reuther and Meany when it comes to compulsory social security medical care schemes, also seems a little sensitive to the words "socialized medicine," even though he has been a long-time exponent of it.

In the proposal his "task force" submitted to President Kennedy earlier this month he inserted "In no way will any of its provisions socialize medical care."

But a cactus by any other name is just as sticky.

partment, though he did have one very strong personal recommendation—that of FDR, Jr., to be secretary of the Navy.

McNamara left for Detroit for the weekend to think the matter over. Kennedy advisers now hear that during the weekend, David Rockefeller, president of the Chase Manhattan Bank and brother of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, phoned Henry Ford II advising that under no circumstances should Franklin Roosevelt, Jr., be made secretary of the Navy, since it would give him a build-up to run for governor.

The Ford office in Detroit emphatically denies that any such thing happened.

When McNamara reported back to the president-elect on the following Monday, he said that he must have an absolutely free hand in appointing his subordinates and he would not take Roosevelt.

"But," replied Kennedy, "you don't even know the man."

McNamara then agreed to see Roosevelt and phoned him, saying he would like to come and see him.

"I'll come and see you," replied Roosevelt. "No, I don't have any office," replied the secretary of defense. "I'll come and see you."

The two then had a long and friendly talk. McNamara asked specifically about FDR's view on unification and better cooperation between the Navy and other branches of the service. Roosevelt said he believed in cooperation, but also in a certain amount of rivalry. He gave as an illustration, General Motors, which although one over-all company, encouraged rivalry among the executives producing its different cars. He felt there should be a certain amount of rivalry between the armed services too.

Later McNamara went back to Kennedy and said:

"You're right, he's a very attractive fellow. He knows quite a bit about defense. But I still don't want him. He might upstage me."

That ended that. Kennedy stuck to his agreement that the new secretary of defense could pick his own subordinates.

Capital Chaff

During his first day at work, President Kennedy wandered through the White House, poking his head into several offices to see how his aides were getting along. By noon the place was humming. . . . Jacqueline Kennedy, the new first lady, carefully read up on the White House before moving in. She didn't know, however, that she couldn't redecorate the public rooms without the approval of the fine arts commission. . . . She started making plans to exhibit contemporary art in the White House until an aide tipped her off that the fine arts commission, not the first lady, is mistress of the public rooms. . . . Jackie is firmly resisting pressure from newspapers, magazines, and TV programs to feature her children. She has made it clear that she intends to shield them from publicity and bring them up as normally as possible. . . . Social Security beneficiaries are grumbling over the post cards which they are supposed to fill out and mail back to the Social Security Administration. Unlike most government agencies which furnish postage-free cards for replies, the SSA required the beneficiaries to supply their own stamps. What really gripped the recipients, however, was the fact that the cards were also oversized, hence cost them four cents instead of three. . . . One disgruntled beneficiary figured out that if all the cards were returned, it would cost the beneficiaries $570,440—at the rate of four cents apiece.

Corrective Measure

Some good may come out of one aftermath of the tragic fire aboard the carrier Constellation in Brooklyn. The Navy has ordered the trial use of chemically treated, fire-resistant planks for scaffolding. The great amount of wood aboard the ship has been cited as an important contributing factor in the spread of the blaze. The Brooklyn Navy Yard will be the first shipyard in the country to try the fire-resistant wood.

Naturally, Naturally

Stray dogs were getting awfully smart in De Tour, Mich. They could recognize the village marshal's car and did they fade. The council met the emergency and bought the marshal a $300 gun to fire tranquilizers into strays so he could get close enough to see if they were licensed. You guessed it. In the first year's bag were pets of two of the councilmen.

The World Today

Kennedy Meant What He Said—Action

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy, during the campaign, promised "action" if elected. So far the record shows he meant what he said.

In his first week in office he began work on disarmament, had a hand in settling a strike, acted to help depressed areas and the Congo, moved in other directions, and may have helped in getting Russia to release two captured U. S. fliers.

During the campaign, Oct. 15, he said: "We must let Mr. Khrushchev know we are permitting no expansion of his foothold in our hemisphere."

He let Khrushchev know it Jan. 20, the day he became President, in his inaugural address: "Let all our (Latin American) neighbors know we shall join with them to oppose aggression or subversion anywhere in the Americas."

But during the campaign, Oct. 7, he also said: "In my judgment we should follow the advice of Theodore Roosevelt: Be strong . . . and speak softly."

Although he stiff-armed Khrushchev in the inaugural talk, he didn't rough him up, talked of cooperation and beginning "anew." This was fairly soft talk.

Khrushchev seemed to respond: He released two captured American fliers, only survivors of the RB47 plane shot down last July 1 by a Russian fighter.

In turn, Kennedy said he was continuing the ban on U. S. spy flights over Russia.

Kennedy said Oct. 12: "We must use our surplus and our technology to meet the critical African need for food."

He followed through at his first news conference, Jan. 26, with this: "The United States government has decided to increase substantially its contribution toward relieving famine in the Congo."

On Sept. 19 Kennedy, critical of the Taft-Hartley Act's labor-strike injunction, its main strike-settling instrument, said:

"Why should we be armed only with the power to enjoin labor when, there is a whole arsenal of other weapons available . . . including mediation."

On Jan. 21, the day after being sworn in, Kennedy agreed to have his new secretary of labor, Arthur Goldberg, go to New York to try to settle a two-week old damaging harbor strike. It was settled over the weekend.

On Oct. 5, Kennedy said: "We must get moving on the problem of depressed areas."

On Jan. 21, the day after becoming President, Kennedy in his first executive order started carrying out this campaign pledge by

Utah University Vice-President Will Take Post

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Dr. Sterling M. McMurrin, academic vice president of the University of Utah, said Thursday he will accept the post of U.S. commissioner of education if it is offered to him.

Dr. McMurrin said he has been recommended for the commissioner's post by Welfare Secretary Abraham Ribicoff. McMurrin returned to Salt Lake City Thursday night after a conference with Ribicoff in Washington, D.C. directing increased distribution of free food to needy families in depressed areas.

During the campaign Kennedy promised a code of ethics for government employees. Two days after taking office he appointed three law professors to advise him on ethics and conflict of interests in government.

On Sept. 10 he said peace "requires an America that is planning, preparing and striving for disarmament."

Tuesday, Jan. 24, he began his administration's study of disarmament in a White House conference with his top advisors on that subject.

In his speech accepting the Democratic presidential nomination last July 15, Kennedy promised to do something about the "blight" which "has descended on our regulatory agencies (like the Federal Communications Commission and Federal Power Commission)."

He acted with sharp speed on this by asking James M. Landis, former dean of the Harvard Law School, to investigate the agencies and report on remedies. Landis turned in a blistering report.

On Dec. 29, or 22 days before taking office, Kennedy assigned Landis the job of his special assistant in reforming the agencies.

But Kennedy made campaign promises in many fields — like housing, education, depressed areas, and the economy — and appointed study groups to make recommendations to him by the time he became President.

They did. So he's prepared to act on them with Congress. If what has happened in Kennedy's first week is typical of how he intends to perform throughout his presidency, he and the country will have a busy four years.

Why Does Etiquette Frown On Burp, Condone Sneeze?

By Harold Thomas Hyman, M.D.

"What causes air swallowing?" asks a correspondent, "and what can be done about it?"

Everybody swallows air whether it's with food or saliva. Babies have to be burped after a bottle. There's no medical harm in air swallowing. So what's to be done about it comes down to a question of what's supposed to be good manners. For example, the Turks regard burping as a tribute to the host and his chef. Most of our social arbiters either frown on the burp or look the other way and pretend they've never heard it.

Me, I'm a burper way down to my shoe tops. I know that accomplishment won't win me the approval of those who write books of etiquette. But how come they don't object to the cough and the sneeze, that blow pathogenic microbes all over the place?

"Please explain diverticulitis," requests a lady. "Should I have X-rays? Would surgery correct it? Could nervous tensions be the cause of it? Is it true that older persons usually have it, as I was recently told?"

Dear lady, you have surely collected a rare collection of misinformation if I'm to judge by your questions.

Actually diverticulitis is an inflammation located in little pockets or diverticula scattered throughout the large intestine.

These pockets are congenital. That is to say they're present at birth. Usually they're detected as a chance finding during an X-ray examination of the intestine. They may be few in number but more often, there are scores of them.

If they're uninfected and unrelated to the systems under investigation, the radiologist reports the presence of diverticulosis. That means he's observed them and cleared them of any involvement of present importance.

If a diverticulum becomes infected, it behaves like an infected appendix and may require surgical treatment. On occasions, too, a diverticulum is associated with a malignant growth.

Some surgeons believe there's a causal relationship and advocate removal of all portions of the large bowel that contain diverticula. I do not hold to this view. The operation is a very formidable one and I would not recommend it unless I were certain that the relationship truly existed.

In my opinion, the association of the two conditions is coincidental. Hence, I favor a policy of strict conservatism.

As you see, dear lady, there's no mention of nervous tension. There's no need to go to the trouble and expense of having X-rays. Surgery won't correct it unless you're willing to undergo a major operation on the basis of an unproven theory. And the condition has nothing to do with the process of growing old.

About all that's really worth doing is to take nightly doses of mineral oil to prevent intestinal content from getting caked in the little pockets.

Capital Is Expectant As New Team Takes Over

By PETER EDSON

Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
WASHINGTON — (NEA) — There have been flurries that the Kennedy political honeymoon was over before he took the inaugural oath. But the prevailing sentiment is to give the new administration a chance to show what it can do.

Nit pickers are eager to find flaws even with perfection. President Kennedy has the disadvantage of not being a national hero who won by a landslide and can do no wrong. But the criticisms so far have been clouds smaller than a child's hand, evaporated by the sunlight of public disclosure.

There was an abortive move to object to the appointment of Chester Bowles as undersecretary of state and Adlai Stevenson as U. S. ambassador to the U. N., on the basis of their views over future relations with Red China. But the evidence was so scanty the effort was abandoned.

Objections to the millionaires of the Cabinet — Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy, the President's brother — are going to be worked out by trust fund agreements to satisfy Senate critics.

There may be rather concerted opposition to the President's appointment of Dr. Robert C. Weaver as housing and home finance administrator. Open basis for the objection is a fear that Weaver, former New York housing official, favors an end to segregation in all government-financed housing. Under the surface there is an investigation going on of some of Weaver's associations prior to 1940.

AFL - CIO President George Meany is sore that the appointment of Joseph D. Keenan as assistant secretary of defense for manpower did not go through. Meany is usually perturbed about something, so this does not have the makings of a rupture.

If one comes, it will be over Kennedy's refusal to buy the 20-point legislative recommendations for economic reform.

The Mature Parent

It's Not Unkind to Expose Child to Hostile People

Dear Mrs. Lawrence:

Last year my little boy enjoyed kindergarten very much. But this year every other morning he'll say "I don't want to go to school today." He says that his first grade teacher is always "yelling" at him. My problem is whether or not to have a little talk with her about this. Other mothers tell me that she's been abusive toward their youngsters too. . . .

Answer: Do you really believe that a "little talk" with this teacher can change her from an irritable woman into a self-possessed one?

Let's depart Fairyland and come down to earth. If you don't, your small boy may continue to believe in magic that can transform his yelling first grade teacher into his nice kindergarten one. And when she remains what she is, he may start imagining himself to be a bad boy.

Actually, it is not fine for children to be constantly associated with kindly, patient, interested people.

For the world isn't entirely composed of them. That we resist this fact is our problem. We just don't like to believe that hostile people exist in the world and want children to share our view of it as unfailingly beneficent. Somehow we've got the impression that everyone will love us if we are just good enough our-

There is plenty of political gossip in Washington that before too long President Kennedy and Vice President Johnson face a showdown over relations with Congress.

The vice president is still conscious of his past position as Senate majority leader, when the President was decidedly a junior grade follower. But it is the President who now leads in determining what the administration's legislative program will be. And it remains to be seen whether the vice president can follow and support as well as he has led.

Kennedy has been criticized for not using his influence, through Johnson or otherwise, to persuade the Senate to change its rules on limitation of debate at the opening of Congress. A couple of phone calls might have done it.

But in his defense, it should be made clear that at the time this matter was sidetracked to the Senate Rules Committee, Kennedy was neither president nor was he a senator. So he had no official voice in the matter.

The complexion of Congress has not changed appreciably from last year. If anything, it is a shade more conservative. It is not the kind of Congress apt to give whirlwind approval to an extremely liberal program like the New Deal reforms that sailed through in F.D.R.'s first 100 days in office. If the Kennedy honeymoon does end soon, it could be over a program such as this.

But in the weeks before inauguration, Congress showed a warm friendliness toward the new President. It showed tolerance toward practically all of the new administration appointees and a willingness to cooperate with them.

They have been of a remarkably high order, with a potential for creative leadership that has not been one of the outgoing administration's greatest assets.

The mood in Washington as the Kennedy administration settles down to work is one of hope and high expectations that its challenges will be met with decisiveness and distinction.

Because we are afraid of hostility ourselves, we don't want children to register it as truth but instead tell them cruel lies about how they can change it if they are only good, obedient, loving, etc., etc., enough.

If you can stop entertaining unrealistic hopes of changing this teacher, your little boy will stop, too — and take better care not to arouse her hostility instead of pretending it isn't there waiting to pounce.

Let me say right here that our mental hospitals are jammed with people who believed that everybody loved them. When the truth finally hit them, they got shocked out of this world. So it is not terrible when a child meets someone who doesn't love him. It can only become terrible when we tell him the truth isn't true.

Motorists Fear A Cobblestone Hill In Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Hundreds of motorists ordinarily park their automobiles on the steep, cobblestoned bank of the Wolf River at its confluence with the Mississippi near downtown Memphis.

Few of them dared to Thursday, after five unwary motorists stepped on the brakes, zipped down the ice-coated stones like bobsleds and plunged into the water.

All the drivers evacuated successfully but one car disappeared entirely and the others were partially submerged.

The two buildings were gutted by the fire. The building on the north is owned by Mrs. Paul Reper, of Ottaville and the one on the south by Mrs. Guy Long of Pilot Grove. There was some surplus goods of the Judy's Surplus Store stored in the Long building, this was all destroyed by the fire.

Neither building has had any business located in them for more than a year, it was reported. The losses were not estimated by the Fire Chief, but it was said by bystanders the buildings were valued in excess of $30,000. Mrs. Reper could not be immediately contacted, but it was reported she had some insurance, and it was believed Mrs. Long had some coverage on her building.

Lou Judy, owner of the stored merchandise could not be contacted to learn if he had any insurance on articles in the building.

clinical psychology, State Division of Mental Diseases, Jefferson City, who talked on the role of mental health.

Dr. Cravens emphasized the need of mental health clinics in communities. The mental institutions, he said, are over-crowded, and while the traveling clinics are doing an excellent piece of work there is a waste of time in traveling and only a few people benefit.

About 42 per cent of the people feeling need of consultation about mental illness, go to their minister, 29 per cent to the family physician and the rest to organizations. A community or county of 50,000 could have such a clinic, with 50 per cent paid by the state and 50 per cent by the community. It would cost $50,000 a year to operate it, but such a clinic would do much to relieve this mental problem. There would first need to be a fund raising and a selection of personnel. Two counties could go together if they wanted to, he said.

The third speaker was Thomas E. Singleton, chief, Bureau of Special Services, State Division of Welfare, Jefferson City, who talked on the "Role of Public Welfare."

When people come to the welfare office, he said, they are in trouble, physically or mentally. He explained the new state Hospital Vener Plan for acute hospital or medical emergency cases. There are 134 hospitals participating throughout the state, and this relieves the pressure on the counties.

Singleton stated that Pettis County has an excellent medical care plan. Some counties have no resources at all.

Charles Edwards, administrator, Bothwell Memorial Hospital, talked on the "Role of the Hospital" and stated that the hospital had four purposes, first, to care for the sick and injured, second, education, which included teaching nurses, doctors and ministers for chaplains, this in larger hospitals; third, research; and fourth, public health interest.

Hospitals, he said, of 20 years ago are not adequate today. Health, he continued, is associated with hospitals, and plans for the hospital are care of the aged, mental health and home care through loaning of equipment to out-patients. To make a community healthy there must be a healthy hospital.

The program chairman was Dr. Lorenzo Green, Lincoln University, Jefferson City, Thomas E. Singleton and Miss Roseanne Dugan, Pettis County director of welfare.

Introduced were the MASW local board members, Miss Roseanne Dugan, Mrs. William Lusk and Del Heckart. Also introduced were Mary Garies, Jefferson City, assistant executive secretary for services to West Central Division of MASW; and Mrs. Marthena Cook, Marshall, membership committee chairman, West Central Division of MASW.

Polls Show US Prestige On Decline

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two government polls which said U.S. prestige declined last year in some parts of the world were made public today on orders from President Kennedy.

The studies released by the U.S. Information Agency had figured in the 1960 election campaign. Much of the two foreign opinion samplings had been published by several newspapers before the November election.

Secrecy labels were left on similar studies conducted in the past.

One of the studies, dated Oct. 10, 1960, says that people in most parts of the free world believe that the Soviet Union is ahead of America in space achievements and will lead in space 10 years from now.

The other, dated June 1960 states that after the collapse of the Paris summit conference last May public opinion toward the United States declined in Britain and France. But both America and President Eisenhower continued to stand far ahead in esteem compared with the Soviet Union and Premier Khrushchev, who also lost in public favor.

The documents were referred to frequently in the 1960 campaign argument over U.S. prestige abroad.

Kennedy said American prestige had plunged under Eisenhower's rule. Vice President Richard M. Nixon said U.S. prestige had hit a new high.

Kennedy demanded that the USA documents be made public, but the Eisenhower administration refused.

Officials connected with the studies felt then—and many still feel—that the reports should be kept secret. They contend that the studies are the internal working tools for the agency, needed to help draw an accurate picture of how others see the United States.

They say that the value of many of the studies would be seriously breached, and opinions would be less candidly expressed, if the results were opened to public scrutiny.

Night Fire Kills Five Young Tots

TEXARKANA, Tex. (AP) — Flames sweeping through a house occupied by 12 persons killed five tots 3 months to 4 years old Thursday night.

The victims all were grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Sanders, a Negro couple with whom three daughters made their home.

One of the survivors, Benny Earl Sanders, 9, said one of the children shouted as the blaze was discovered: "I'm on fire—the quilt is burning!"

Firemen said the bedding somehow came in contact with an open heater in a room where six children had been put to bed.

Those who perished as flames destroyed the five-room frame dwelling were Gary, 4, Vickie, 3, Dennis, 2, and Steve, 6 months, all children of Margaret Sanders, and Sherry, 3 months, daughter of Lula Dean Sanders.

Margaret Sanders, her 18-month-old son Darrell and Mrs. Willie Sanders, the grandmother, were taken to a hospital for treatment of burns and shock.

Has Praise For Jack's New Doctor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., today cheered President Kennedy's selection of Dr. Janet Travell as the official White House physician and added this plea:

"I certainly hope Jack's kind to me and let her treat me once in awhile."

Goldwater, one of the foremost conservatives of the Republican party, said the New York doctor also had been treating him for about three years.

"Sen. Kennedy told me about her and telephoned her so I could get my first appointment," the Arizona told a reporter. "She's really wonderful."

Goldwater said he had been "troubled with what I think is a pinched nerve in my back."

"It has caused aches and pains in my arms and wrists but since I've been treated by Dr. Travell I've had nearly complete relief," he added. "But it's not something that goes away completely."

Goldwater said he visited her in New York this week without learning she was about to get the White House appointment previously limited to male physicians.

"I told her I hoped to see her soon again but she was a little indefinite," he said. "I thought she was going to be busy writing a book."

"I was pleasantly surprised when I read she had been appointed White House physician," Goldwater said. "She is a wonderful woman as well as a wonderful physician."

Dr. Travell, 59, who is married to a New York stock broker, in 1955 treated Kennedy's serious back trouble, which stemmed from a wartime combat injury.

Thursday she said Kennedy's health is "excellent. He is under no restrictions whatsoever. He can eat anything he likes."

She prescribed for him a daily swim in the White House pool and perhaps a little golf.

It was Dr. Travell who discovered that one of Kennedy's legs is slightly shorter than the other, which put a further strain on his back. He now wears a quarter-inch lift in one shoe.

She said she expects she'll see the President daily, "if only to say good morning," as White House physician.

She hinted that her patient may not be as convinced as she is of the need for constant standby medical attention, "but he may be overruled."

Who will do the overruling? "I will," she said.

The fourth game of the tournament, Thursday night, was one of excitement as Riverside Red-X and the Warrensburg "Untouchables" tangled in the closest of the tournament to date. The Red-X emerged the victors by nine points 80 to 71.

It was anybody's game up to the last two minutes of play although Red-X was leading 74-71. A quick time-out brought a conference between the Riverside players and in those last two minutes tallied up six points and were able to make the "Untouchables" miss numerous shots at the basket.

In the second quarter the "Untouchables" went to work and collected 19 to 15 points to gain the half time lead of 34-31. Opening the third quarter the "Untouchables" held to the lead for the first minute and a half during which time they added six points, but during that time the Red-X aggregation picked up nine points and knotted the game 40-40. Olympic Star Said Athlete Of the Year

By HUGH FULLERTON JR. Associated Press Sports Writer

Rafer Lewis Johnson, Olympic decathlon champion, world record holder and the man who represented perfection to his teammates, is the athlete of the year for 1960.

Johnson, who beat out his protegee, C. K. Yang of Nationalist China in the grueling 10-event test at the Rome Olympics, was proclaimed the world's greatest all-around athlete after that victory.

And his teammate Lee Calhoun added: "To most of the guys on the team he represents perfection."

Johnson was named today as the Male Athlete of the Year in the annual Associated Press poll by the vote of 256 sports writers and editors throughout the United States. He won out over Arnold Palmer, whose 1960 performances ranked him as the world's outstanding golfer, by a slim margin of 19 points in the balloting.

Johnson will receive the Fraternal Order of Eagles-Fredrick C. Miller trophy at a civic luncheon in Milwaukee Feb. 27. He is the first American athlete to receive the trophy in three years. It was won last year by Sweden's Ingemar Johansson, then world heavyweight champion. The year before it was Herb Elliott, the Australian miler.

Johnson was named first on 93 of the 256 ballots. Palmer, winner of the U.S. Open golf championship and the Masters and second in the British open, received 73 first place votes. On a point basis, with three awarded for a first place vote, two for second and one for third it was Johnson 398 and Palmer 379.

Floyd Patterson, the first boxer ever to lose the heavyweight championship and regain it, placed third in the voting with 29 firsts and 168 points. Norm Van Brocklin, who quarterbacked the Philadelphia Eagles to the National Football League championship, was fourth with 10 firsts and 141 points.

Johnson, a powerful 6-foot-3 Negro from Kingsburg, Calif., went into the Olympics as an outstanding favorite. Two months before he had bettered the listed world record of the Soviet Union's Vasily Kuznetsov by more than 200 points. He had been chosen as the flag bearer for the American team in the opening ceremony—an indication of the high regard in which his teammates held him.

Others in the top ten in the balloting were: Joe Bellino, football 68 points, fifth, Dick Groat, baseball 63 points, sixth; Jerry Lucas, basketball 42 points, seventh; Ted Williams, baseball 26 points, eighth; Vernon Law, baseball 23 points, ninth; Bill Mazeroski, baseball 23 points, tenth.

Two months before he had bettered the listed world record of the Soviet Union's Vasily Kuznetsov by more than 200 points. He had been chosen as the flag bearer for the American team in the opening ceremony—an indication of the high regard in which his teammates held him.

Olympic Star Said Athlete Of the Year

By HUGH FULLERTON JR. Associated Press Sports Writer

Rafer Lewis Johnson, Olympic decathlon champion, world record holder and the man who represented perfection to his teammates, is the athlete of the year for 1960.

Johnson, who beat out his protegee, C. K. Yang of Nationalist China in the grueling 10-event test at the Rome Olympics, was proclaimed the world's greatest all-around athlete after that victory.

And his teammate Lee Calhoun added: "To most of the guys on the team he represents perfection."

Johnson was named today as the Male Athlete of the Year in the annual Associated Press poll by the vote of 256 sports writers and editors throughout the United States. He won out over Arnold Palmer, whose 1960 performances ranked him as the world's outstanding golfer, by a slim margin of 19 points in the balloting.

Johnson will receive the Fraternal Order of Eagles-Fredrick C. Miller trophy at a civic luncheon in Milwaukee Feb. 27. He is the first American athlete to receive the trophy in three years. It was won last year by Sweden's Ingemar Johansson, then world heavyweight champion. The year before it was Herb Elliott, the Australian miler.

Johnson was named first on 93 of the 256 ballots. Palmer, winner of the U.S. Open golf championship and the Masters and second in the British open, received 73 first place votes. On a point basis, with three awarded for a first place vote, two for second and one for third it was Johnson 398 and Palmer 379.

Floyd Patterson, the first boxer ever to lose the heavyweight championship and regain it, placed third in the voting with 29 firsts and 168 points. Norm Van Brocklin, who quarterbacked the Philadelphia Eagles to the National Football League championship, was fourth with 10 firsts and 141 points.

Mrs. Earl Gregory, health chairman, introduced Dr. T. J. Hopkins, who spoke briefly and then introduced Dr. C. W. Meinershagen, Director of Tuberculosis Control in Jefferson City. Dr. Meinershagen said, "Diphtheria and polio have gone into the back ground during the last few years, and by the same token, tuberculosis also can be controlled." He briefly outlined some of the duties of a county health nurse and said that checking on the tuberculosis contacts is only one of the many duties assigned to a county health nurse. His talk was followed by a film.

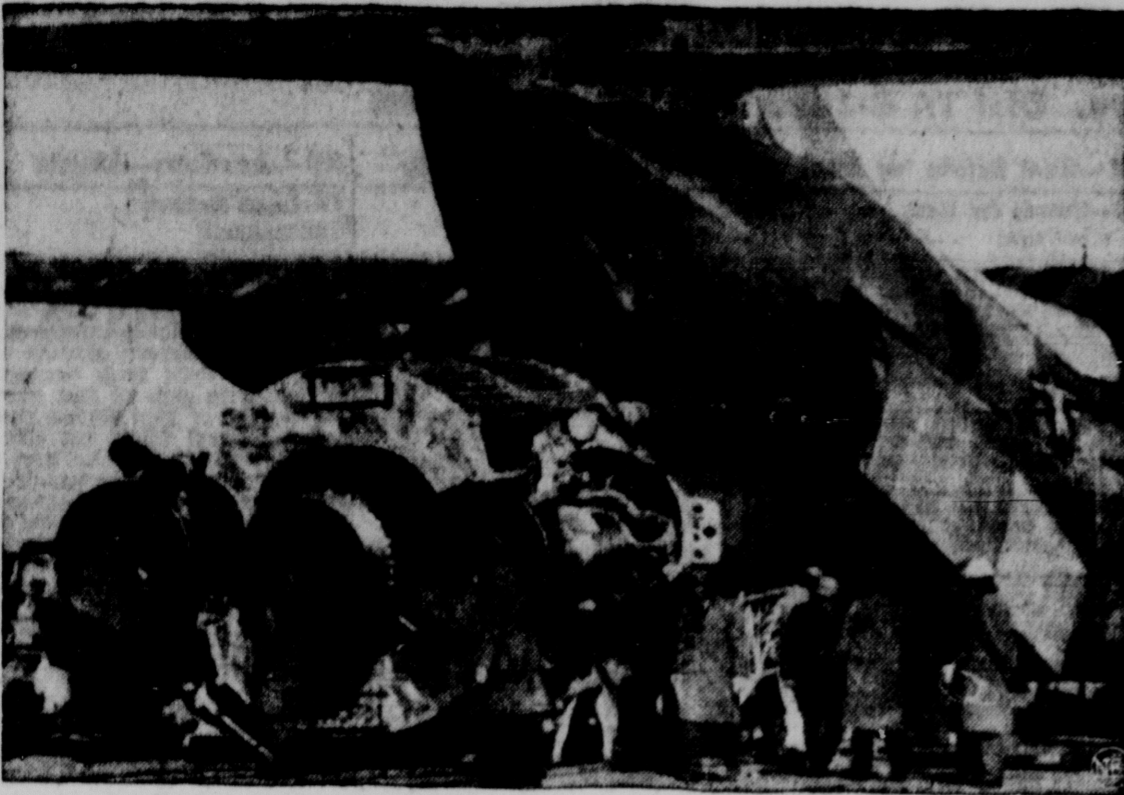

Mrs. Gertrude Berlin, who is now assisting the Tuberculosis Society was next introduced. She spoke briefly about Tuberculosis Testing and Control.

Other guests were Mrs. Bettye Murrell, city health nurse, and Mrs. Eldon DeMott, nurse with the department of health in Jefferson City.

70 Top Officers In Air Defense Hold 3-Day Meet

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—About 70 high ranking officers of the Air Defense Command are conducting a detailed review of the nation's $8 billion defense setup during a three-day meeting here.

The system is expected to be in full operation this year, Lt. Gen. Joseph H. Atkinson, commander of the ADC headquarters at Colorado Springs, Colo., told a news conference.

It includes the latest in electronic eyes and ears to warn of enemy attack, 90 squadrons of late model jets from the Air Force and National Guard, and the Bomarc missile, he said.

Atkinson, the ranking officer among the 24 generals attending, said it will cost $3 billion a year to operate.

The sessions, which end Saturday, are closed to newsmen.

Holding Two Charged With Embezzling

FAIRMONT, W. Va. (AP)—A gray-haired spinster and a young mother of two children have been arrested on federal charges stemming from a $224,224.70 shortage at a bank where they both worked.

Held for arraignment today on embezzlement charges were Miss Lucy Fortney, 62, and Jo Ann Stevens, 25, both employees of the Bank of Shinnston (W. Va.) near here. They will appear before U.S. Commissioner L. T. Eddy.

The shortages in the bank's accounts were revealed Thursday, but there was no explanation as to how they were discovered or how long a period of time was involved. However, deposits were insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. Wayne C. Hawker, president of the bank, said depositors would face no losses.

Authorities said Miss Fortney was employed by the bank for 28 years, many of them as assistant cashier. Both she and Mrs. Stevens, wife of a coal company employee, have lived all their lives at Shinnston, a town of about 2,500 residents.

Mrs. Stevens was employed for eight years as a bookkeeper.

Both women appeared before Eddy Thursday not long after blonde Mrs. Stevens was released from a hospital after undergoing two days of treatment for an overdose of sedatives. Eddy set bond at $10,000 each and ordered the women held in Marion County jail pending today's hearing.

Bank officials and State Banking Commissioner Carl B. Early did not elaborate on the shortage. Early said he had heard Monday that "all was not well" at the bank and two examiners investigated along with agents of the FBI and the FDIC.

Now Viola Bryan and a grandmother, she took leave from her elementary school teaching job at suburban Lakewood the other day and applied for the 33-year-old scholarship.

Surprised officials at Denver University announced they will honor the scholarship in deference to Mrs. Bryan's long service to Colorado education.

L. J. Wright Sr.

(Editor's Note: This is another in this series of articles concerning city and county officials, their staffs and responsibilities.)

L. J. Wright, Sr., is the city plumbing and sewer inspector, taking over his duties in June, 1958. His office is located on the second floor of the City Hall.

It is his duty to issue permits for all plumbing jobs in the city. Also he issues permits to plumbers, the Water Department and the Missouri Public Service for cutting into the streets and alleys of the city for any work that must be done requiring this.

When a new sewer is being put in, it is his duty to get all the measurements for it and oversee the job.

Hong Kong Is Hottest Spot On Networks

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP T-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — All of a sudden Hong Kong has become the hottest spot in network television.

In a sudden switch of plans, CBS decided to wind up its "Witness" series with Thursday night's simulated hearing on the old Black Sox baseball scandal. Next week, the original termination date, CBS will run a 60-minute special called "Hong Kong."

This is not one of ABC's adventure series of the same name, but a sight-seeing trip of the city with movie star William Holden as guide. It was made well over a year ago but never shown.

Actually, it's a shrewd move by the network. In the first place, it gets an aging property off the shelf. And, in the second and most important place, it beats NBC to the home screens with a Hong Kong treatment.

NBC recently shipped commentator David Brinkley off on a working tour of the Far East. It plans to present Brinkley in an hour's special on March 21. The title of the NBC show is "Our Man in Hong Kong."

Meanwhile, ABC treated its audience to a novel double dose of its 60-minute adventure series, "Hong Kong," on Wednesday night. The first was the regular weekly show in the regular 7:30 p.m. Eastern Standard Time spot. Then, at the time usually occupied by its high-rated "Naked City" police action show, it rebroadcast a special, hand-picked episode.

The idea, of course, was to try to lure viewers who are normally occupied with NBC's top-rated "Wagon Train" or CBS' trailing "Aquanuts" to the third network.

Overnight audience ratings from seven cities indicated that the second, late-evening "Hong Kong" picked up and held the usual "Naked City" audiences. Now ABC just hopes they will follow the show back to its regular spot in the schedule.

Music lovers must steel themselves for another bitter blow. The report is that NBC's tuneful Telephone Hour will disappear early in May, (and with it, its alternating show, "Sing Along with Mitch" which bows in tonight) to make room for a Western and a police action series. The replacements which are now top candidates for the weekly hour are "Whispering Smith," starring Audie Murphy and "The Lawless Years," with James Gregory playing a prohibition era cop.

Jackie Gleason and the producers of his new "You're in the Picture" have junked an earlier tape they planned to use for tonight's second program and are frantically trying to remodel the show into a workable half hour of entertainment. Jackie is particularly unhappy about the show and eager to try some new gimmicks he thinks may rescue it. Incidentally, the producer of the show is Steve Carlin, once the head man of "The $64,000 Question" in his first return to the game-show field since the quiz-show scandals broke.

Will Press Chinese Reds To Release 5

WASHINGTON (AP)—With the release of two American airmen by the Soviet Union now accomplished, the United States is planning to press Communist China again for the release of five Americans still held in Chinese jails.

U.S. officials said today the new effort on behalf of the prisoners will be made at Warsaw Feb. 2 when the Chinese Communist and American ambassadors are scheduled to hold their 103rd meeting.

State Department officials consider the continued holding of the five Americans a primary block to any improvement in relations with Communist China.

The subject came up Thursday night at an Indian Embassy reception when reporters talked briefly with Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov.

Menshikov had a chat with W. Averell Harriman, Kennedy's special roving ambassador, and then told newsmen it depends on both sides to make progress in settling disputes.

He cited the Soviet release of the fliers and asked what the United States would do in return.

Asked if the Chinese Communists would join in fresh attempts to solve outstanding problems, Menshikov said "this also depends on both sides."

But the cool reception given to President Kennedy in the Chinese Communist Press is far from encouraging.

The President noted this at his news conference this week when he spoke of the somewhat belligerent attitude of the Chinese Communist regime toward his new administration.

Nevertheless, U.S. Ambassador Jacob Beam will be instructed to again seek the liberation of the imprisoned Americans when he next meets Chinese Communist Ambassador Wang Ping-nan at Warsaw, officials said.

The five Americans are John Thomas Downey, New Britain, Conn.; Richard George Fecteau, Lynn, Mass.; Robert Ezra McCann, Pasadena, Calif.; Hugh Francis Redmond Jr., Yonkers, N.Y., and Bishop James Edward Walsh of the Roman Catholic Maryknoll order.

Yugoslav Red Press Sees an Improvement In US-Soviet Terms

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, (AP) —The Yugoslav Communist press Thursday night hailed what it called first steps in improvement of relations between the United States and the Soviet Union. "Politika" said the first news conference of President Kennedy and Moscow reaction "gives hope that this will be the first step in a process, perhaps not a speedy one, but consequent and constant."

Catch Youth Who Freed A Jailed Killer

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Oklahoma City police Thursday night captured an 18-year-old youth who a few hours earlier at gunpoint freed an accused slayer from the Canadian County jail at El Reno.

The accused slayer, Howard Lowery, 23, Bethany, Okla., still is at large, believed to be on foot near Will Rogers Airport at the southwest edge of Oklahoma City.

Officers spotted the car in which Lowery and Mike Marks, El Reno, were fleeing near the airport. The fugitives crashed the car into a telephone pole and fled on foot. Marks was caught on an airport runway. He offered no resistance.

Police found Dale Hise, 20, a service station attendant in the wrecked car. Hise said Marks and Lowery robbed him a few minutes earlier of about $40.

Hise said Lowery, armed with a gun he apparently got from Marks following the escape, threatened him repeatedly.

About 100 police were searching for Lowery.

Marks, released from jail only Thursday, returned that night with a pistol and freed Lowery. The pair kidnaped another convict and fled in the jailer's car.

Glenn Ford Stays Under His Contract

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — His fellow stars have sometimes looked askance at Glenn Ford, the last of the big names to remain under studio contract.

Maybe they should change their attitudes. Glenn may not be earning their millions. But he gets the grade A star treatment, and he may last longer than most of the others.

Glenn has been under contract for 22 years, an amazing record considering his still-youngish looks. He started with Columbia, to whom he still owes one picture. In recent years, he has also been tied to MGM, and he has two more films to do for that studio.

"And I might sign up again," said the actor. This would defy all the laws for stars dreamed up by the legal and agency minds of Beverly Hills. According to those geniuses of finance, stars are supposed to form their own companies, and most do.

"Actors aren't suited to produce their own pictures," Ford said bluntly.

He gets a share of the profits in his last film, "Cry For Happy," and he'll be partnered with Frank Capra in his next film, "Pocketful of Miracles." But with his current one, "Four Horsemen of The Apocalypse," as with all his others, he works on a straight salary.

It's not a bad salary (est. $300,000), but Ford could write his own ticket with any studio. So why does he like a contract deal?

"Because I work the way stars used to work in the good old days," he said. "I get the kind of treatment that stars go to court to get, and the terms are not even in my contract."

"My own contract is only a page long. The rest of the things were established on a handshake between (MGM exec) Benny Thau and myself."

Among the Ford terms: Use of the No. 1 dressing room suite (once tenanted by Clark Gable), redecorated once a year. A telephone in his dressing room on the set (a rarity in studios). A 9-5 work day or 6 at the latest—"Actors should work normal hours, the same as anyone else."

He has just as much respect for the buck as anyone, but he plans to continue resisting the stampede toward independent production.

"I've had a lot of guys tell me I can earn a million dollars by making a picture with them," Ford said. "Of course, the script isn't quite right, and they won't spend much money on the picture. It doesn't take many of those before you're washed up."

Hires Burglar To Make Mother Quit Business

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Wilbur Hightower says he hired a man to burglarize his mother's dress shop to force her out of business because she has a heart condition.

Hightower, 36, of Pittsburgh Thursday was held for grand jury action on charges of receiving stolen goods. Police are searching for the other man who took $2,700 worth of dresses and machines Jan. 18.

Hightower testified at a magistrate's hearing that his mother, Madeline Hightower, refused to give up her share in the shop and he decided to take a "drastic measure."

He said the hired thief was to take just enough to force Mrs. Hightower out of business.

Shows Help TV Schedule

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—A few special shows and some especially interesting guest stars help fill out a comparatively lean schedule in television during the next few days.

Tonight there is the premiere of the "Sing Along with Mitch" series on NBC (9-10) Eastern Standard Time.

Chet Huntley will describe the situation of the Cuban refugee in Miami in his Sunday afternoon NBC news show (5:30-6) while CBS will explore Ireland on its "Twentieth Century" series (6:30-7). In addition, there will be an NBC musical treat, "Swingin' at the Summit" that night (9-10) with such stars as Tony Bennett, Kay Starr, Louis Armstrong and Harpo Marx.

June Allyson's Monday night program will be a Civil War drama starring Lee J. Cobb (10:30-11, CBS). Bobby Darin stars in a special on NBC Tuesday (9-10 p.m.), assisted by Bob Hope and singer Joanne Summers. And after that comes "The Square World of Jack Paar," in which Jack will comment on his own travel films.

Harry Belafonte will be Perry Como's guest Wednesday evening (NBC, 9-10) and CBS's Circle Theater will take a look at espionage in the United States in "The Spy Next Door" (10-11). On Thursday, Danny Thomas and daughter, Marla, appear together in CBS' Zane Grey Theatre (8:30-9).

that the dollar can and must be protected at its present value. And corporations and individuals with overseas trade and investments have his further word this can be done without exchange controls that would halt the free movement of their funds to and from the rest of the world.

This makes it open season for advice to the President on other measures to deal with what he calls a most serious problem, the outflow of gold which has led some here and abroad to worry about the dollar's future.

Usually conservative ideas are advanced by American bankers and financial observers. Our allies have come up with some others, often at variance with each other according to their own current needs.

American bankers usually concentrate on programs to make the domestic economy stronger, holding that this will make the dollar above reproach. These include balanced federal budgets, encouragement of investment at home through tax revisions, and avoidance of crash programs to aid the unemployed which might start inflation rolling again.

Foreign advice ranges far and wide.

The director of Japan's Economic Planning Agency urges abandonment of President Eisenhower's plan to cut back U. S. purchases abroad, including buy-American drives and return of dollar-spending dependents of U.S. military and diplomatic cohorts overseas.

Instead the Japanese view is that the new administration should boost both exports and imports. Then the trade balance—supposedly still in America's favor—would mop up the deficit in the balance of payments which gave foreigners the dollars with which to buy U. S. gold.

At the other end of the range of advice, some Britons suggest we halt foreign aid and save our dollars. Their country got a lot of them in the early postwar years, but since has had a business boom of its own.

In between is the West German offer of some immediate, mostly nonrecurrent, dollar aid such as prepayment of debt to the United States.

Without specifically pinpointing the gold problem, the Chase Manhattan Bank, New York, notes today that exports have held up well. But it urges steps to encourage investment at home, by providing more realistic tax treatment. This should "improve prospects for a strong revival in business later in year." It wants "a program that concentrated on fundamental factors and promised to promote longer term prosperity and growth with stable prices (which) would assure confidence at home and abroad."

Roy M. Reierston, vice president and chief economist of the Bankers Trust, New York, proposes to get rid of raids on gold supplies by individual speculators and hoarders by limiting gold dealings to central banks and governments for the settlement of international accounts. The central banks and the International Monetary Fund would have to agree on this.

Ask Your Minister---He's Heard These Pretty Often

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks ministers get tired of hearing: "That was a wonderful sermon, but wasn't it the same one you preached last year?" "My husband sends his regards."

"The collection came to $38.50, a Canadian quarter—and three buttons."

"Why is it ministers are always asking for money, money, money? Don't they ever think of anything else?"

"If this church was run on sound business principles, there wouldn't be any deficit."

"I can do without a new dress for another year, dear. But we simply have to find a way to get a new suit. You can't afford to look so shabby."

"Instead of preaching so much against juvenile delinquency, why doesn't he do something about his own kid? He's about the wildest boy in town."

"He's such a nice man. I wonder why he never became a bishop?"

"Sure, I know he's against sin, but that isn't enough. What I want to know is, what's he for?"

Farm Leaders Still Divided

450 Man Group Can't Agree On Means to Raise Income

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Conference of 450 farm leaders, called by the Kennedy administration to forge a uniform farm policy, ended Thursday just about where it started—divided.

Farm leaders could not agree on what measures should be taken to boost farm income.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman and his aides simply learned what they probably already knew—that farm leaders for the most part are not happy with economic conditions in agriculture.

Santa Maria Speeds On For Africa

Portuguese Ignore US Plea to Land 588 Passengers

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—The Santa Maria, with Portuguese rebels at the helm, sped on Thursday night, pursued by the U. S. Navy in its biggest peace-time tracking operation.

The Portuguese, who seized the sleek gray liner Sunday, ignored a U. S. Navy plea to turn back and land the 588 passenger—38 of them Americans—at a South American port.

The owners predicted Portugal's fastest frigate soon will catch the ship.

In a radioed message, rebel Capt. Henrique Malta Galvao said he was sailing for an unnamed neutral port to discharge the passengers.

U. S. Navy authorities in Port of Spain, Trinidad, said the nuclear submarine Seawolf had made contact—presumably by radio—with the Santa Maria. They said her present course indicated the Santa Maria was making for Dakar, Senegal, on the western-most tip of Africa.

While the foe of Portuguese Premier Antonio do Oliveira Salazar had expressed a willingness to talk with U. S. officials, he sent no reply to an urgent message Wednesday night from the Navy.

"Request you proceed any port northern South America you choose to discharge passengers," messaged Adm. Robert L. Dennison, commander in chief of the U. S. Atlantic Fleet. "Will attempt to arrange conference aboard Santa Maria as you request."

The Navy put four destroyers and 18 planes into a trailing operation. This is primarily to insure the safety of the passengers.

Capt. Edward R. Hunt, assistant chief of staff operations for the Caribbean Sea frontier, said there is no intention of interfering with the liner.

But taking note of Galvao's threat to scuttle the ship, he told reporters: "It would be nice to have ships around just in case."

The destroyers Wilson and Damato sailed from Port of Spain, Trinidad, after refueling.

"The destroyers will serve as a plain guard and will be available to escort the liner if the Santa Maria herself so desires," said Cmdr. Charles Rainey, public information officer.

The tanker Canisteo was sent to refuel two other destroyers on watch off the African coast, the Vogelsang and the Gearing.

A Navy pilot who made contact with the Santa Maria Wednesday said he got the impression in an exchange of messages that Galvao would like to disembark the passengers at sea.

A Navy patrol reported to headquarters about 12 hours after Dennison messaged Galvao that (Please turn to page 4 column 5)

An Explosion Reportedly Seen in the Air

USAF Plane Carrying 23 Persons Vanishes Over Canada Coastline

ARGENTIA, Nfld. (AP)—A U. S. Military Air Transport Service plane with 23 aboard vanished Thursday over Canada's frozen Atlantic coastline. At just about the same time a Navy plane reported seeing an explosion in the air.

The transport was carrying 13 passengers and 10 crewmen from Morocco to its home base at Norfolk, Va., via the Azores and Newfoundland. It was due to land at Argentia early in the morning.

The air temperature was around zero, and the water around 32 degrees.

The last word to the ground from the four-engine C118 was received by the control center at Gander at 2:30 a.m., local time. The pilot made no mention of trouble and gave his position as 455 miles southeast of Argentia, site of a big military installation.

The plane failed to report in an hour later as scheduled. Gander then declared an emergency.

The U. S. Air Force said a Navy long-range patrol plane sighted the transport on its radar and talked with the crew at 3:10 a.m.

At 3:45 a.m., the Navy plane reported seeing an explosion in the air about 27 miles northeast of Argentia. That would be near the city of St. John's, on the Coast across a narrow peninsula from Argentia.

Search officials here said the reported explosion might have been a flare.

The weather was a serious obstacle both to search and survival.

If the plane landed in the icy waters, the passengers and crew would have little chance of staying alive. High winds and flying spray created icing hazards for surface vessels.

The plane left Morocco, and stopped for refueling in the Azores.

The plane was attached to Transport Squadron 22 in Norfolk. The squadron was organized in 1950, and the Navy said the group's record had so far listed no fatalities.

Could Wreck UN Force in Congo

Dag Warns Against Pulling Out Troops

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld warned Thursday that threatened troop withdrawals could wreck the U.N. force in the Congo and bring the big powers into the Congolese conflict.

He told Indonesia, Morocco and the United Arab Republic they "must bear the responsibility" should that happen. The three plan to pull 4,900 men out of the force in the next few weeks, reducing it to 13,230.

Congolese President Joseph Kasavubu renewed his demand that Hammarskjöld recall his special representative in the Congo, Indian Ambassador Rajeshwar Dayal. He first made the demand Jan. 14, and Hammarskjöld turned it down next day.

Kasavubu said Dayal has lost the confidence of the Congolese people and officials by failing to prevent "brutalities and horrors" by lieutenants of deposed Premier Patrice Lumumba in Oriental and Kivu provinces.

The United Nations made public letters on the two matters as Hammarskjöld conferred with the January president of the Security Council, Omar Loufi of the United Arab Republic.

Laying the letters before the council, Hammarskjöld said the definite decision of Indonesia, Morocco and the U.A.R. to withdraw from the force "have implications for the future of that force so serious as to need to be called to the attention of the Security Council."

He did not ask specifically that the 11-nation body renew its Congo debate, broken off Jan. 14. But diplomats said they expected it would do so next week.

President Modibo Keita of Mali and President Kasavubu of the Congo have asked for a new debate but neither has specified when.

The U. N. force sent to the Congo last July to keep order totaled 18,908 officers, troops and technicians as of last Friday.

Since then, Hammarskjöld has received notices that Morocco will withdraw 3,240 men and the U. A. R. 510 men by next Tuesday and Indonesia 1,150 not later than February.

A Ghana spokesman in Accra further stated Thursday that his country is standing on its ultimatum of last Dec. 15 that the United Nations must secure the release of Lumumba and restore him to power or Ghana will withdraw the rest of her 1,917 men.

The spokesman declined to disclose the time limit of the ultimatum. Ghana already has withdrawn one of her three battalions, the spokesman said.

Despite Another Delay in Trip

Air Force Captains Happy and Cheerful

HALIFAX, N. S. (AP)—Despite another frustrating delay on their long journey home from seven months in Soviet captivity, two U. S. Air Force captains were described Thursday night as "happy, cheerful and sure looking forward to getting home."

Held up for 21 hours after their commercial plane blew out two tires at a Moscow airport, Capt. Freeman B. Olmstead and John R. McKone again were delayed overnight at Goose Bay, Labrador, by bad flying weather ahead.

Their wives are waiting for them in Washington and the reunion now is scheduled for Friday afternoon. President Kennedy also will welcome them at Andrews Air Force Base, Md., near the capital.

"The two captains are just fine," said Col. M. H. Gilman, an officer traveling with the pair, in a phone interview. "They seem to be in fine physical shape and of course, overwhelmingly happy."

An Air Force spokesman in New York said the two men were taken to the Goose Bay base exchange to get new air Force uniforms and presents for their families and were given routine physical examinations at the base hospital.

The spokesman said the two men were met by Col. Robert W. Strong Jr., Strategic Air Command wing commander and Col. Louis A. Rochex III, Goose Bay Air Force Base commander.

Olmstead of Elmira, N. Y., and McKone of Topeka, Kan., landed at Goose Bay in a U. S. Air Force Constellation for what was originally planned as a routine refueling stop. Then came the bad news about the Washington weather.

The Air Force threw a security ring around the men. Aside from Col. Gilman's brief statement, all inquiries were referred to the Pentagon in Washington.

The fliers' account of their treatment since their RB47 reconnaissance plane was shot down over the Barents Sea by Soviet fighters last July 1 are a matter of high policy and undoubtedly will be subject to State Department scrutiny in advance. The White House banned interviews for the present time.

Their release was announced Wednesday night by Kennedy at his first news conference. It had been arranged directly with the Kremlin, and Kennedy himself was careful not to go beyond the diplomatic language that apparently had been worked out.

After Olmstead and McKone left Moscow, U. S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson, who helped arrange their release in private talks with Premier Khrushchev and other officials, met newsmen in his embassy office and told of the men's arrival.

Olmstead and McKone—whose four other crew mates are either dead or missing—were brought to the embassy in baggy Russian suits Wednesday morning at 10 a.m.

"Boy am I glad to see an American," said Olmstead.

"They looked like Russians," Thompson told correspondents with a smile. In that way the two airmen passed undetected under the noses of Moscow's foreign press and diplomatic corps, for Kennedy had not made his announcement.

They had been scheduled to leave Moscow on a Dutch commercial airliner at 12:40 p. m., on the last two available seats on the plane. The seats had been booked under the names of two U. S. Air Force officials attached to the embassy in Moscow.

As the airliner taxied out to the runway, two tires blew out. The plane returned to the hangar and the pilots to the embassy.

Spare tires were flown in from Warsaw. The airliner finally got off at about 1 a. m. Olmstead and McKone landed at Amsterdam. They changed to their Air Force Constellation, got a cup of hot chocolate and sleeping pills, and went to sleep for the flight to Goose Bay.

Reunion Slated for Today

Storm Forces Wives Of Airmen to Wait

WASHINGTON (AP)—A snowstorm Thursday forced two Air Force wives to wait at least another day before being reunited with their husbands, just freed by the Russians after nearly seven months in captivity.

Assuming the weather clears enough, Capt. John R. McKone and Freeman B. Olmstead will land some time after noon Friday at Andrews Air Force Base in Maryland, a few miles outside the capital.

President Kennedy—who announced their release by the Soviet Union at his first news conference Wednesday night—will be on hand to extend the nation's welcome home to the two fliers. Meanwhile, Sen. Styles Bridges,

R-N.H., told the Senate "I hope the President will make clear soon" whether anything was promised to the U.S.S.R. in return for freeing McKone and Olmstead. At his news conference, Kennedy indicated the Russians did not ask any concessions and that this country made none.

McKone and Olmstead are the only known survivors of a six-man crew aboard an RB47 reconnaissance craft shot down by Soviet planes over the Barents Sea in the far north last July 1. The Russians have held them prisoner ever since.

Mrs. McKone and Mrs. Olmstead, who is in the late stages of pregnancy, were rushed here Thursday from Topeka, Kan., aboard an Air Force plane—only to learn poor flying conditions were keeping their husbands overnight at the base in Goose Bay, Labrador.

The bad weather apparently fouled up Washington-Goose Bay communications and the excited wives were unable to talk to their newly liberated husbands by radio telephone.

Despite the snow blanketing Washington, Secretary of the Air Force Eugene Zuckert traveled to the Andrews base and greeted Mrs. McKone and Mrs. Olmstead, who were given the hospitality of the base.

Although disappointed at the delay, the wives were in high spirits at the unexpectedly happy turn in fortune which had looked so bleak for them until Wednesday night.

They have been living in Topeka, where McKone and Olmstead were based before the ill-fated tour overseas. Olmstead's home is in Elmira, N.Y.

Officials managed to establish contact with Goose Bay from Halifax, N.S., and an officer escorted the two captains reported them "just fine—in fine physical shape, and, of course, overwhelmingly happy."

Mercury Begins Skid From High Of 12 Thursday

The snow squeaked Thursday night if you were brave enough to go outside and walk on it... and as any oldtimer will tell you, that's a sign that it's cold outside.

The oldtimer would be 100 per cent correct. The thermometer was on its way to zero in a slippery skid from an afternoon peak of 12 above. At 8:30 the mercury shivered at 6 above, and was slowly receding into the bulb at the bottom of the thermometer, probably for warmth.

The temperature was 12 at 7 a.m. Thursday, 9 at 1 p.m., and the low Wednesday night was 10 degrees.

Five below was the expected low Thursday night.

Slippery streets in the Sedalia area also served as a clue. A number of drivers attempted to turn corners only to wind up going where they had been instead of where they were headed. Fortunately, police reported there were no serious accidents as Sedalians exercised a sensible, safe and sane amount of caution.

What's in store Friday? Well, it'll warm up... to around 20 degrees. And as a bonus, the weatherman foresees a blanket of fresh snow late in the day.

Hardware Retailers To Hold School Here

Over 25 hardware retailers are expected to attend the annual Hardware Sales School at Bothwell Hotel Feb. 1.

The school, sponsored by the Western Retail Implement and Hardware Association, will be conducted by R. E. Hartzler of the Kansas State College at Emporia. The meeting begins at 7:15 p.m. and ends at 10 o'clock.

BULLETIN

The Sedalia Junior Chamber of Commerce named Matt Green III of Smithton as outstanding young farmer of Pettis County for 1960 and selected John E. Brown, 1121 Ware, for the Jaycee Distinguished Service Award.

The selections were announced at the annual awards dinner at the Old Missouri Homestead. Speaker at the affair was state Sen. Thomas G. Woolsey, Versailles.

Through State Aid Plan

Roads Improved By 112 Counties

One hundred and twelve Missouri counties made construction improvements on 1,641 miles of local county roads during the 1960 calendar year, according to figures released by the Missouri State Highway Department for the County Aid Road Committee.

The state's share of the funds comes from General Revenue. Those counties received a total of $1,350,568 from state General Revenue funds. Local funds amounting to $1,340,618 were expended on these projects.

The figures released also showed that during the 1960 calendar period a total of 107 counties made maintenance improvements on local county roads totaling 14,801.6 miles covering 430 projects. Total cost of this work was $1,669,475 with $903,881 in state funds and $765,595 in local funds. Those counties used 95.1 per cent of their state General Revenue funds available to them for maintenance purposes.

In some instances, local expenditures may have exceeded the amounts shown, since frequently more local funds are actually spent on projects than are reported to the State Highway Department.

Since the inception of the county aid program in 1947, this year's money brings the total state General Revenue funds to $24,195,452. Of that, amount $19,335,842 went for construction and $4,859,610 for maintenance.

Sixty-two counties during 1960 used 100 per cent of the construction funds available, 16 others

Wheeler Farm Home Burns Near LaMonte

Family of 6 Loses Everything in Home Except Deep Freeze

The two-story, nine-room frame farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Wheeler, six miles northwest of LaMonte, was destroyed by fire Thursday while the family was away. Only a deep freeze filled with meat was saved.

Mr. Wheeler was at a sale at Pilot Grove and Mrs. Wheeler was at her sister-in-law's home in LaMonte when the fire occurred. The Wheelers have four children, Bobby, 13, twins Susan and Steven, 10, and Julie, 2. All of their clothes were lost in the fire.

The blaze was discovered about noon by a neighbor, Dave Patrick, who notified the LaMonte volunteer fire department. Patrick attempted to enter the house before the firemen arrived, but smoke and flames drove him back. By the time firemen arrived, all the inside, the roof, and the entire east side were ablaze. About 15 neighbors converged on the scene to offer help in fighting the fire.

The only item saved was the deep freeze, and Wheeler said last night some of the meat may have been ruined. The meat was taken to the homes of several neighbors, who canned it in an attempt to save it.

The Wheelers moved in last night with Mr. Wheeler's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Wheeler, south of LaMonte, where Mr. Wheeler said they expect to stay until they can find a different home in the community.

Wheeler said the house and furnishings were covered by insurance, and he would rebuild.

There was no estimate on the amount of the loss. The cause of the fire was not known.

Freighter Sinks

VENICE, Italy (AP)—The 1,000-ton Yugoslav freighter Vrmack sank Thursday off Venice in a heavy sea with an apparent loss of four lives, Italian police said.

The ship was carrying 1,000 tons of goods, including 1,000 tons of grain, and was en route to the Adriatic Sea.

When Alarm Sounds: Firemen Ready

Firefighters Set Around the Clock

By Ralph Jones

At mid-morning Wednesday the alarm sounded in both Sedalia fire stations. Firemen scurried to their posts and in one minute the fire truck from the west station was on its way.

On arrival at the scene of the fire it was found some lint near the floor furnace was smoldering. The lint had been compacted around the furnace by a clothes dryer, one of the many unusual ways for a fire to start.

The smoldering blaze was extinguished, with no damage listed. Not very exciting, but that's the way the firemen like it—they had arrived in time to prevent a damaging blaze.

Their prompt arrival at the scene of this fire is the result of split-second timing and years of training.

When the fire phone rings, a lot of things happen fast. In the first place, when the fire number is dialed, a phone equipped with an alarm rings in both the east and west fire stations, the police station, and in the home of Fire Chief Emmett Vaught.

At Vaught's home, if he is there and not at the station, the chief makes a bee-line for his car. It's his own private car, and the City has authorized a monthly car allowance for its use. In the chief's car and all department vehicles is a two-way radio on the fire department and police broadcast band.

From his car the chief can follow the progress of the trucks, and relay instructions and information to the stations, the vehicles on the move or to the police station. Regardless of where the chief happens to be, within the city, when the alarm goes off, he goes on duty.

At the police station, the desk sergeant just listens in on the phone call—he doesn't answer. He takes down the location and enters this and any other information available on the police blotter. He can notify all police cars on duty to assist in any way possible.

Back at the fire station, if the call is made at night, the men, with the exception of one man on duty at the phone, may be upstairs in bed. At the sound of the alarm, which "would wake up the dead," the firemen on duty hop out of the bunks and into "boots and bunks" which have been prepared and left beside the bunks. This gear consists of a pair of fire boots and a pair of heavy trousers with the legs of the trousers slipped over the tops of the boots. Still sometimes half asleep the first man kicks open a double door in the floor and slides down the steel pole.

The others follow in turn, or all at once, depending on how fast they get to the pole. By the time the men reach the floor they are really awake, and head for the truck. In the meantime the man on the phone has all available information ready for the truck crew and the truck heads out of the station.

In a test when the accompanying photos were taken Tuesday, the truck was rolling in 15 seconds from the time the chief tapped the alarm. The location of the fire determines which truck actually rolls. When the alarm goes off, both stations are alerted. If the call is to the Country Club district or to Southwest Village, the east truck does not go out, unless actually called by radio. The men stand by for the call, however.

The equipment is not the best, Vaught stated, but so far it has been adequate to cope with fires in the city. Monday night at the City Council meeting, bids on a new pumper truck are to be opened. An additional truck and a new station on the west side of the city were voted down by Sedalia in a special election last year. The new truck will help, Vaught said, but the department still needs one more truck and the new station.

Equipment at the west station, near City Hall, consists of one combination aerial truck 750-gallon pumper truck, one 750-gallon pumper truck and a 500-gallon pumper truck used as an extra vehicle. Six men are on duty on a 24-hours on, 24-hours off basis.

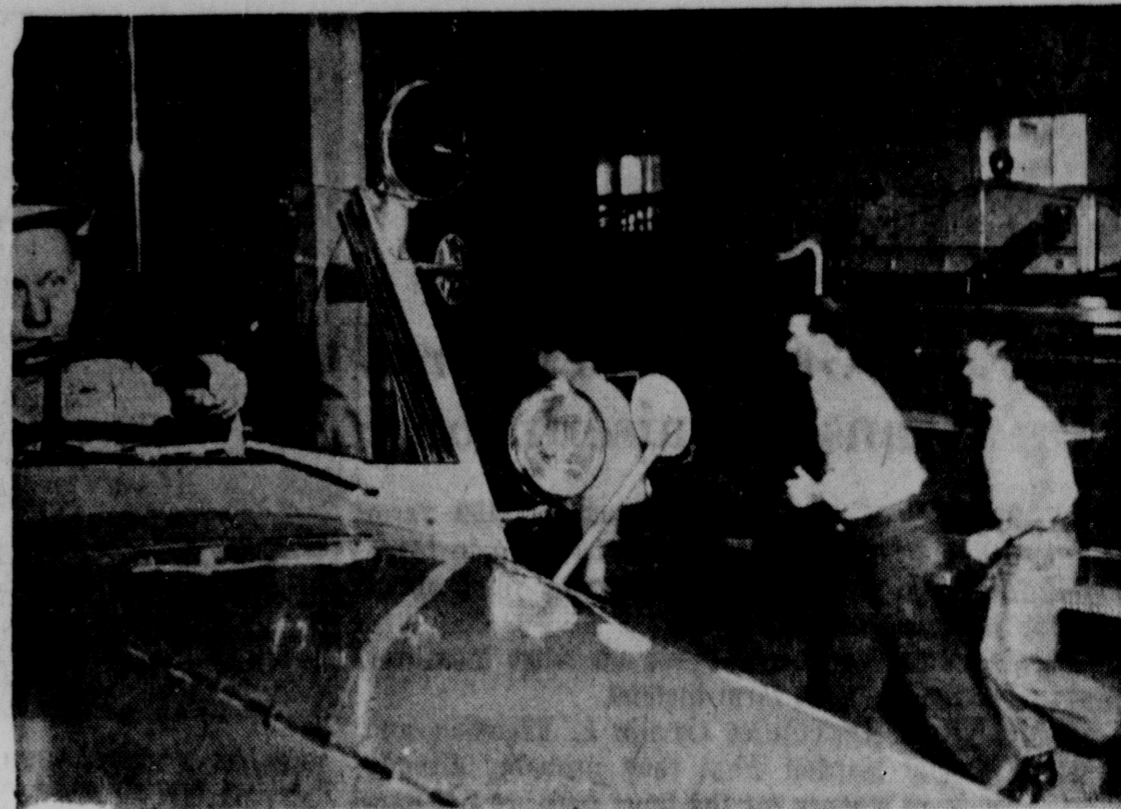

The aerial truck answers all calls to downtown areas, to the schools and churches, or any place it might be needed. It stands by when the other trucks are on a call, ready for use if needed.

At the east station there is a 750-gallon pumper truck and four men on shift. They too work one day on and one day off. Ten men in all answer a normal call, with the remainder of the 27-man force on call.

BOOTS AND BUNKERS—A split-second after the fire alarm rings the firemen are out of bed and have donned "boots and bunks" that have been placed beside the bunk upstairs.

in the fire station. Above Lloyd Gordy, left, and George Smethers, right, come out about even in a race to see who can be ready first. (Democrat-Capitol photo)

ON THE WAY—As soon as the men upstairs at the Sedalia fire station hear the alarm they make a run for their posts on the pumper truck. The driver, Leo Gentges, is already in his seat. The other men, running in the background, don their helmets and other fire-fighting gear after the truck is on its way to the fire.

Police Action Worry

MATS Has Not Jets To Move Troops

SCOTT AFB, Ill.—(NEA)—What if it's not a supersonic atomic war at all? What if it's a police action in Southeast Asia or a matter of carbines and grenades in the Caribbean?

A quick look at our defense machinery reveals one gaping hole—time necessary to answer an emergency call.

Only three military transport aircraft in our Air Force are powered by pure jet—and those three are assigned to Washington to move top military and government officials.

The remaining 447 transports are propeller driven—and most of them 10 to 12 years old.

Communications systems on board are as old and as limited.

In real life this means nearly 24 hours to move troops from Hickam Field, Hawaii, to—let's say—Bangkok, Thailand. Or 12 hours from McGuire Field, N. J., to Guantanamo Naval Base in Cuba.

During last summer's emergency in the Congo, what a Belgian jet airliner could do in hours took days for the U.N. troops in a U.S. military transport plane.

And with old communications systems, these planes were out of touch with the ground command for most of the African leg of the journey.

According to commander Gen. Joe Kelly, our military Air Transport Service, headquartered at Scott, is about $2 billion and eight years away from up-to-date status.

Why?

Since 1946 when MATS was set up as an independent command of the Air Force and given the responsibility of the Berlin Airlift, commercial airlines have argued that personnel transportation in peacetime is actually passenger traffic and belongs to free enterprise.

While the argument raged, little was done to replace old equipment with new. Only a few months ago was the matter settled. MATS was granted survival, but appropriations to update MATS equipment must still be voted by Congress.

Mostly Mixed

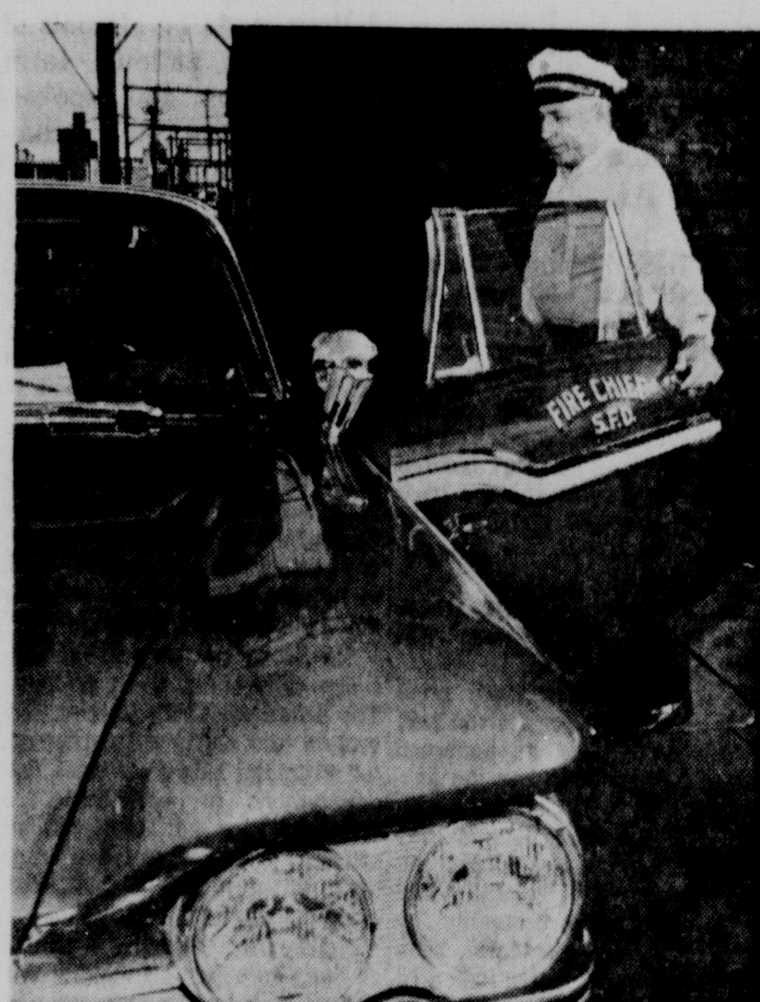

The average person seldom sees nickel in its pure state as it serves man mostly generally when it is alloyed, or "mixed," with other metals such as in stainless steel.

DOWN THE HATCH—George Smethers beats Lloyd Gordy to the pole leading downstairs and kicks open the hatch as he disappears in a blur. Gordy followed before Smethers reached the floor below.

COMING DOWN—Lloyd Gordy, ready for the fire, comes sliding down the pole within seconds after the alarm goes off.

CHIEF GETS READY—When the fire alarm goes off the Fire Chief, Emmett Vaught, makes for his car. In the car he has a two-way radio, a dry chemical fire extinguisher and his fire helmet. He can direct both the east and west fire stations, and request police assistance, from this car.

Lucy Finds Broadway Is Not Like TV

By WILLIAM GLOVER
Associated Press Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Lucy loves Broadway—but finds starring in "Wildcat" vastly different from TV.

"I can't believe the part about having to go to the theater every night," exclaims the lady known more formally as Lucille Ball. The tone is more wistful than rueful.

"I have to be threatened to get there," she adds. "Once I get to the dressing room I'm all right, and on stage I have a ball. But I'm used to three days off a week from work. Now I get just one."

"I don't dare lie down for a nap in the afternoon, because then I dream I've done the performance already. That makes it twice as hard getting started."

Having done more than 200 TV shows, Lucy finds no comparison between the two entertainment forms. Her previous stage work was as a chorus hooper way back before films and TV made her rich and famous.

"This is more fun," she says of her Alvin Theater shenanigans, "though I didn't think it would be so strenuous. I never had to worry about the physical thing and the voice before."

Desilu, the corporate business of Lucille and ex-husband Desi Arnaz, put up the entire $400,000 for producers N. Richard Nash and Michael Kidd. Nash wrote the script, Kidd directed.

Sleek Circuit: Latest novelty on the swank cross-country supper club route is Broadway-in-brief. Streamlined versions of all-time hit shows are displaying hefty audience appeal in rivalry with those late spot-stalwarts—sultry singers, caustic comics and exotic dancers.

Main features are lots of melody, top vocalizing and just enough story to keep things going. Shows being packaged this season include "The Merry Widow," "Vagabond King," "Naughty Marietta," "Anything Goes," "Good News" and "Die Fledermaus."

Having a Ball At Inauguration

By JERRY BENNETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Living it up at the inauguration of President John F. Kennedy may be as expensive for some people as a round-the-world cruise.

Like conventions, vacations and long weekend holidays, the Jan. 18-20 inaugural festivities will be as costly or inexpensive as you want to make them. But to do it up in high style, according to Capital socialites, the cost can run as high as $5,000.

This small fortune covers new ball gowns and cocktail dresses for the Mrs. and Misses to attend the round of receptions; the ball, concert and parade tickets; a room in a better downtown hotel; food, tips; transportation and miscellaneous expenses.

Fashion designers estimate that the chicest new inaugural wardrobe will cost about $3,000 each. However, they say that a woman can spend as little as $800 and still be presentable.

Tickets will cost the big spenders nearly $1,500. Whether a person actually shells out this much depends on two things—whether he has that much money and is invited to all the events.

Only tickets for the symphony concert, parade and reception for Vice President and Mrs. Lyndon Johnson will be put on public sale. Events like the Inaugural Ball, Hollywood Gala and Young Democrats reception and dance require either an invitation or application to the Democratic party for permission to contribute your money.

Most expensive event is the Gala, a big variety show staged by Frank Sinatra. Box seats for the event cost $1,000 apiece. A whole box of 10 seats costs $10,000. All other tickets sell for $1,000.

The Inaugural Ball, which will be actually three enormous dances held in different parts of town at the same time, will cost box seats $80 apiece. People who don't mind sitting at ground level can get by for $25. The President and Vice President and their families will attend all three dances. The Young Democrats dance and reception will require an $8 donation to get in the door. The Governors and Distinguished Ladies receptions are free but require invitations. Cocktail parties and receptions will also be held by various state societies.

All is not lost, however, for Democratic enthusiasts who are neither rich nor influential. They can still attend the Vice President's reception for $5, go to the concert for $5-$15 and sit down at the parade on bleacher seats ranging from $3-$25. There will also be free but crowded standing room.

Visitors will find Washington food prices about the same as in any other metropolitan city. Meals here cost as much as $15 for a steak dinner or as little as the regular hot dog stand and cafe-teria prices. How much you spend on liquor is strictly up to you.

But the best news for big and little spenders alike is the hotel room situation.

Polly Shackleton, co-chairman of the inaugural housing committee, says that there will be plenty of room for everybody because of last minute cancellations and numerous hotel and motel facilities.

The Washington metropolitan area, which includes nearby Virginia and Maryland counties, has about 130 hotels, 187 motels and 144 guest houses for 56,000 potential guests.

But to prevent people from reserving rooms and then not showing up, the hotels are not taking reservations for less than three days. Many are also requiring a $20 down payment for each of the three days. The average price for a room with twin beds in the larger hotels is about $30.

Mrs. Shackleton explains that her committee will find housing for anyone who requests it. But she says that it won't do you any good to specify a particular hotel. You'll have to take what is available.

One woman who didn't know this wrote the committee asking for a room on the same floor of the hotel where singer Frank Sinatra will be staying.

For Thrills, Try a Jeepney Ride

By M. P. SARMIENTO

MANILLA—There's no such thing in Manila as a 7-15 bus to catch on the way to the office. Nor is there a 5:15 for the homeward trip.

Just go to the nearest street corner. There's always a ride to be had there—provided you're not the complaining type.

Frequently, it's get aboard and hang on. There's no telling when you'll get to where you're going or whether you'll get there at all. And, worse still, there's no guarantee you'll be in one piece when you do arrive.

Surprising thing about it all, though, is that after riding in such hectic pace and fashion all these years you've not a scratch or a bone broken.

Which points up Manila's public transportation system as probably being one of the most reckless, undisciplined and irresponsible in the world.

Buses and "Jeepneys" make up the system. The latter are U.S. Armed Forces World War II jeeps converted to hold eight passengers behind the driver and two more alongside him.

Jeepneys far outnumber buses in Manila. Figures compiled by the Manila Traffic Bureau for the first six months of 1960 show they total 13,330.

Both bus and jeepney are assigned specific routes in the city by the Public Service Commission under what are called "certificates of public convenience." Among other things, operators are authorized by these certificates to charge a minimum fare of five centavos (five cents) and provide such improvements on their vehicles as would enhance the convenience and comfort of riding public.

Mere words. To jeepney operators especially, profit comes first, improvements second and public convenience last, as a general rule.

Woefully undermanned, PSC enforcement of the terms of the certificates is indifferent. Operators couldn't care less and are willing to discourage such enforcement. Improvements cost money, and, after all, the condition is still in good running condition.

Také the bus stops erected by the city's civic organizations at the street corners designated by the Police Department. To jeepney, and occasionally bus drivers they are mere structures along the route they ply, ignored and even resented. They are made use of only when a traffic policeman is around. Most of the time, passengers are picked up or let off right in the middle of the road.

If life in the city is hectic, it's probably made doubly so with every ride in one of Manila's speeding buses or jeepneys. An American old-timer and ex-cowpoke from Montana once said he was glad he was always up to date in his insurance payments or he wouldn't have had the courage to ride on Manila's jeepneys.

"It was always 'Hi-yo, jeepney, away' with me everytime I went to work in the morning," he complained.

The poor riding public has no other choice but to take a taxi or walk. Manila has neither streetcars nor a subway system.

The occasion was my annual checkup on rumors that Danny was quitting television. He is now in his eighth year in a comedy show, a record exceeded only by the tireless Nelson family.

Fuel for the rumors was in the plans of the Thomas empire to spawn more TV series from his own show. He did it with immense success last season for Andy Griffith. Coming up are segments which are virtually pilot films for shows starring Dick Van Dyke and Joey Bishop. Both are virtually sold, both are situation comedies.

I asked Danny if he was planning to quit the series.

He gazed into space.

"Sheldon Leonard (his director) and I sometimes discuss it. We think we are tired and have no place to go. But then we say, what would we do if we quit? Start another series? We could never find another cast and crew as congenial as this one. We love each other. We see more of each other than we do of our own families. Should we give this up?"

"Sometimes we worry about running out of ideas. We had a show on the air two weeks ago that was so bad that I'd like to buy it and destroy the negative—if it were tax deductible. But shows like that only make us work harder. The last five shows we've filmed will stack up with the best we've done in the whole eight years."

"Sure, I get tired some mornings when I show up for work. But so does the coal miner when he rides down the shaft. All it takes is the first argument and I'm feeling great again."

"Me quit? I couldn't possibly. I'd die."

Here's How To Save On TV Repairs

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Your television set is busily bringing hours of entertainment into your home. Then, at a most inconvenient time, the set starts acting up.

Another hurry-up call for the repairman; another expensive bill.

What can you do to keep your set performing efficiently and cut down on this type of call?

W. W. Cook, manager of TV training for the RCA service company which has branches in large cities all over the country, says there are a number of things.

First, says Cook, be careful when dusting or cleaning behind the television set.

"Be especially careful not to break or even strain the antenna lead-in wire," he cautions. "If it comes partly off or if the wire even works loose, it can result in a snowy picture."

When cleaning or dusting front or sides, Cook advises, it is wise to turn on the set. Often the wiper of the dust cloth inadvertently twists or moves the controls. If the set is dead, the movement is not noticed and can result in a jumbled picture when next the set is turned on.

Many television sets have a plastic protective shield in front of the picture tube. This shield should be cleaned of fingerprints and smudges with a mild detergent and water. An abrasive cleaner will scratch and permanently mar the plastic.

Cook cautions that, if it is necessary to transport a portable set by automobile, it is a wise precaution to put it sideways on a seat so that the picture tube cannot be cracked or scratched.

Repairmen all over the country know how often they are summoned when the only thing that matters with the TV set is that the plug has been removed accidentally from the wall socket. If, for no apparent reason, there is no picture or sound, look at the wall plug first.

Keep children—even adults—away from the rear of the set, he continues. It isn't because of a danger of shock, but because many sets have controls there which are adjusted only by TV technicians. If unskilled hands start twirling those controls, it may take a repairman to get them back in the right positions.

Always make sure that the set is at least two inches away from the wall, so that there is room for air to circulate around the back.

Stripteasers On Increase Over Nation

EDITOR'S NOTE—If burlesque isn't already dead, it's getting there rapidly as one burlesque house after another shuts down. What's happening to the strippers? They're doing better than ever, according to a college professor who earned his doctorate with a 100,000-word thesis on professional pulchritude.

By BOB BARNES

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The sax whines and the piano patters. All eyes are on a whirling, writhing figure in the footlights.

She glides, she twirls, she grinds and she bumps.

A drum cadence builds into a crescendo of rhythm. Her dance grows more abandoned. Off goes her shawl, then her dress.

In a place devoted to sex, before an audience seeking it, after an evening's entertainment geared solely to it, for a few minutes this dancer becomes sex personified.

This is her hour, her chance to make the paying customers remember her from all the others who came before and will follow her. She plays it to the hilt, with every trick in an unwritten book as old as womankind. And then—"Another round, sir?"

It's the cocktail waitress, urging and pressing, constantly reminding that it's not for free, this bare flesh entertainment.

Every night in hundreds of nightspots the nation over this is the scene. The details differ, the girls vary, the acts have twists. There are shows to fit many tastes—some coarse and obscene, some incomparably superior, many in between.

They all play up one commodity: sex. It's a lure. It gets the customers in—and keeps them there.

And while they're there they wine and dine, and the cash registers jingle.

This is burlesque, 1960-style. Girlie shows are far more numerous now than even in the burlesque heydays of the 1930s. One expert, Dr. David Dressler, says there probably are 20 times as many strippers working now.

But the locale has shifted. From the old burlesque houses they've moved to the nightclubs.

Is the upsurge touching off sex crimes, warping young lives?

Dressler says not. A college professor now who for nine years headed the New York Division of Parole, Dressler is perhaps the only man who ever earned his doctorate of philosophy by a 100,000-word thesis on burlesque.

"Burlesque can't do any harm to anyone except to youngsters or certain compulsive people who already have antisocial tendencies," he says. "Minors aren't allowed in nightclubs, whereas burlesque houses were often open to them."

As for antisocial characters—if the naughty shows didn't touch them off, something else would, Dressler says.

Many more women see the strip shows since they've moved to the nightclubs. Some dislike them, but others take a different attitude.

"They'll ask the strippers to teach them bumps and grinds so they can revive their husbands' waning interest," says Dressler, who keeps up with the field while helping West Coast stripper Betty Rowland write her autobiography.

"Or they'll ask for their black lingerie. It's surprising how many requests like that a stripper gets."

In some places the nightclub girls strip all the way; many localities set limits that leave a little to the imagination, both in minimum allowable garb and in manner of dancing.

Sgt. Schwermer Participates In Marine Air Drop

Marine Sgt. James M. Schwermer, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Schwermer, 1120 East Tenth, and husband of the former Miss Willa A. Whitney, Anaheim, Calif., participated, Dec. 12-20, in Operation "Tri-Santa," a Marine air-drop of food and clothing to needy Indians in Arizona.

Marine transports from the El Toro Marine Corps Air Station, Santa Ana, Calif., flew six tons of needed supplies to four Indian settlements in desolate areas of Arizona, which were stricken by summer drought, followed by heavy winter snows.

The combined efforts of the El Toro Marines, citizens of Orange County, Calif., and Marine air delivery men from Camp Pendleton, Calif., made possible the Christmas gift delivery air-drop to the Navajo and Hopi Indians stranded atop 7,000 foot mesas in desert country.

The supplies were packed in outdated parachutes by volunteer Marines at El Toro.

Before enlisting in January 1953, Schwermer attended Smith-Cotton High School in Sedalia.

Old Crop Soybeans Hit New High Levels

CHICAGO (AP)—Another strong push in soybean futures trading Thursday again shoved all the strictly old crop contracts to their highest levels of the season with net gains running to about six cents a bushel.

Transactions hit a fast pace during the last hour or so with prices fluctuating rapidly as profit selling mounted. However, the offers were quickly absorbed with setbacks from the peaks limited to a cent or two.

At the finish prices were only about a cent under the day's best. Trade volume appeared to be heavy and probably close to the 104 million bushels traded on Wednesday, the largest total of the week.

Accidents

Goldie Mae Perkins, Route 4, escaped with no injuries when her 1956 Oldsmobile left the road just west of the intersection of Highway 65 and B about 1:25 p.m. Thursday.

Mrs. Perkins had just turned right off Highway 65 and was westbound on B when the car went out of control on a slick spot, veered into the ditch on the left side of the road and flipped over on its top.

Alone in the car, Mrs. Perkins was taken home with no apparent injuries, investigating State Highway Patrolmen said.

The car's windshield was smashed, the top mashed in, and the left front fender and hood extensively damaged in the mishap. Park's Service Station towed the car away.

Santa Maria

The 20,906-ton liner still was speeding southeast toward the Portuguese colony of Angola in Africa.

Galvao had announced Angola as his goal but in messages he said the passengers "will disembark as rapidly as possible in a neutral port which will grant facilities sufficient for the safety of them, for us and this ship."

The Colonial Navigation Co., owner of the Santa Maria, predicted in Lisbon that the liner will be intercepted Friday by the Pedro Escobar, Portugal's newest and fastest frigate.

The entire Portuguese navy was alerted to be ready to join in the search.

Galvao has called the seizure of the Santa Maria "a patriotic act of insurrection born of belligerency against the hideous dictatorship oppressing the poor Portuguese."

Jefferson City City (P-Gov.)

The formal notification came from the clerk of the House of Representatives in Washington.

Re-aligning the congressional districts is expected to be one of the toughest problems before the 1961 Legislature. The delegation now stands nine Democrats and two Republicans. Population shifts are expected to require enlargement of out-state districts.
